

Freighter Freed From Rock . . . 'But the Battle Isn't Over Yet'

'Copter Plucks 22 From Ship

Tugs Fight Worsening Weather

Twenty-two of the 27-man crew were removed today by helicopter from the battered Greek freighter Glafkos.

RCAF Search and Rescue headquarters in Vancouver said a twin-rotor helicopter that had been standing by at Ucluelet, about three miles from where the holed freighter was anchored, had removed 22 men by 1.30 p.m.

The aircraft, capable of carrying six to eight passengers, was to refuel and return to the ship later today.

An RCAF spokesman said it was not known at headquarters here whether all aboard would be taken ashore and the ship abandoned to the rocks.

By MONTE ROBERTS

The battle to save a Greek freighter from gale-swept, rocky shores of Vancouver Island's west coast at the entrance to Barkley Sound continued today, with the odds improving that two Victoria-based towboats can save the ship.

But worsening weather indicated the sea is not yet ready to give up its claim on the 10,000-ton Ss. Glafkos, which was driven onto a rocky pinnacle at 7.44 p.m. Monday about a mile from Amphitrite Point Lighthouse near Ucluelet Inlet.

"We seem to be winning because she's still afloat, but the battle isn't over yet," an Island Tug and Barge spokesman said at noon today.

Sudbury Scored

At that time, he had just finished speaking by radio telephone to the two tugs on the scene, the Sudbury and Island Challenger.

This was the situation: The freighter, which had its engine room holed and completely flooded when she hit, was pulled free overnight when the Sudbury got a line aboard despite raging seas.

The light tackle — all she could get aboard because the freighter's crew had to pull it in by hand, their winches being without steam — parted just after the freighter was freed, with a crash of tearing metal from the rock.

The smaller Island Challenger moved in and fired a second line aboard. The freighter dropped both anchors in 20 fathoms of water, and, with the tug taking the strain, was held off the rocky coast which could mean her doom.

Anchor Chain Cut

After daybreak today, Sudbury moved in closer to the dangerous pocket of rocks surrounding the stricken ship, and got a line aboard to relieve Challenger, which went into Ucluelet to clear a clogged fuel line.

Meanwhile, the crew had cut through one anchor chain with cutting torches (with no power due to the flooded engine room, the anchors could not be hauled aboard,) and were ready to let the second anchor go.

Challenger later returned to the ship, and at last report was fighting mounting seas and winds to add her towing power to that of the Sudbury.

Not until then will the second anchor chain be cut. The objective is to snake the freighter clear of menacing rocks.

THE CRUEL SEA HUNTS A VICTIM

Waves whipped into froth by gale-force winds tossed tiny, 30-foot Bamfield lifeboat (right) as Island Tug and Barge towboat Sudbury I (out

'Graveyard of Pacific' — I Could See Why!

By HAL JONES
Times Staff Reporter

THANT SEEKS UN OBSERVERS

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — Acting Secretary-General U Thant has asked Portugal for permission to station United Nations observers in Portuguese Angola to make sure that no military aid is entering the Congo's secessionist Katanga province from that territory.

New Soviet Rifle Captured in Laos

VIENTIANE, Laos (UPI) — A high-powered armor-piercing Russian recoilless rifle, believed to be the first to fall into western hands, has been captured from rebel Laotian forces in the plain of Jars, a high-ranking Laotian officer reported today. The weapon will be shipped to the United States for study by American experts.

Dramatic point of a rescue operation to save the crippled Greek freighter Glafkos was reached today as I flew over the scene.

The 10,000-ton vessel is free of the rock pinnacle which pierced her engine room Monday night but it was apparent to see she is still in grave danger.

'GRAVEYARD'

From the circling aircraft I could see why the area is known as the "graveyard of the Pacific."

Patches of boiling sea, signifying jagged outcrops of rock, were all over the place. A heavy Pacific swell still pounded the hapless ship, precariously holding her ground with the help of the city tug Sudbury I and a solitary anchor chain.

As I watched a port-side lifeboat, already loosened during the 40-hour battering suffered by the Glafkos, finally broke away and sank below the waves.

The ship is surrounded by dangerous rocks. Even if the weather slackens off — and there is no sign of a let-up yet — she will have to be wormed out of a maze of underwater reefs.

Most of the strain during Tuesday night was held by the tug Challenger but early today the tow-line was transferred to the Sudbury and the Challenger headed for Ucluelet for a brief rest.

SO SMALL

An RCAF rescue helicopter was hovering over the scene when I arrived but that left too, leaving the Glafkos to the care of the Sudbury and the seemingly ridiculously small Bamfield lifeboat.

No Love For Authors In Canada

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP) — Novelist Nicholas Monsarrat said Tuesday Canadian authors are among the least appreciated in the world. They are comparatively ill-paid and considered by many as "only a trifle more important than the street sweeper."

Mr. Monsarrat, author of The Cruel Sea, interviewed here on his arrival from Liverpool aboard the Empress of Britain, said one of the reasons is that Canada, being a predominantly outdoor nation, is a very bad reading country. It lagged behind even areas of Africa.

The British-born writer, who now lives in Ottawa, was accompanied by his bride, Ann Griffiths, 24, former London journalist. She is his third wife. They were married in December.

JAKARTA (Reuters) — President Sukarno today officially proclaimed Dutch-held West New Guinea an Indonesian province.

At the same time, Foreign Minister Subandrio apparently turned a cold shoulder to a Dutch concession aimed at getting negotiations to reach a peaceful solution on the fate of the disputed territory. Subandrio said that judgment from reports of the Dutch statement he doubted that the new position "can become the basis for a solution to the Indonesian-Dutch dispute."

The governor of Jakarta meanwhile called on the capital's 3,000,000 citizens to register themselves voluntarily for general mobilization.

A broadcast of Sukarno's proclamation said the Dutch government had rejected the Dutch statement.

THE HAGUE (Reuters) — Foreign Minister Joseph Luns said today Holland would do everything in its power to prevent the use of force by Indonesia but would not capitulate to the threat of war.

Luns addressed the lower house of parliament here as a report from Jakarta said Indonesian President Sukarno has advanced his campaign to take over Dutch-ruled West New Guinea by proclaiming the huge territory a province of Indonesia.

The Dutch government said Tuesday it is willing to negotiate on the territory's future with Indonesia.

In the strongest speech yet in the current parliamentary debate on the crisis, Luns warned the Indonesians that if they attacked West New Guinea to climax their "liberation" campaign, they will be branded "aggressors before the world."

The foreign minister described the increased threats of force by Indonesia in recent weeks as "blackmail" to which The Netherlands has replied "with the utmost reasonableness."

In international relations if one party gave way because the other "put the knife on the table," Luns said, this would be capitulation and The Netherlands is not prepared to do that.

DRIVER MAROONED IN TREE AS FLOODS HIT MAINLAND

VANCOUVER (CP) — A Langley man was marooned on a floating tree Tuesday night after his car was swept away by flood water on a bridge approach.

George Swain was trying to drive across a bridge over the rain-swollen Nicomekl River about 35 miles east of here. His light German car was lifted by three feet of water covering the bridge approach and floated downstream for about 200 feet before he jumped free and scrambled to a tree.

He clung to the tree for 30 minutes before a passerby heard his shouts for help and summoned firemen who rescued him from a small boat.

Swain's car is believed to have sunk in a flooded field. The flooding followed torrential rain in the B.C. Lower Mainland and Fraser Valley areas where the weather office reported up to three inches of rain.

The rain turned to ice as it hit frozen stretches of the Hope-Princeton Highway causing an estimated 30 cars and trucks to slide off the road. But there were no injuries.

Roads were washed out and telephone services cut by the flooding in Greater Vancouver.

Salazar in Fiery Blast At UN Over Goa Invasion

LISBON (Reuters) — Premier Antonio Salazar said today the Portuguese government refuses to accept India's conquest of Goa and hinted strongly that Portugal eventually might decide to leave the United Nations.

He said that for the time being Portugal would refuse the UN "collaboration" in matters not in "our direct interest."

Salazar took his stand in a speech prepared for delivery before Portugal's National Assembly.

"It was his first address there since Indian armed forces seized the Portuguese territories of Goa, Damao and Diu last month."

He struck out strongly at the negative UN response to the Indian invasion, saying "we have a right to hear whether our presence and our collaboration in the UN are already

He added: "Even if we do not yet know whether we shall be the first country to abandon the United Nations, we shall surely be among the first."

ROUND-A-BOUT

By DOUGLAS HILLSIDE

Tom Hurley, the popular criminal lawyer who died in Vancouver earlier this week, did not marry until age 67. Then he took for his bride his secretary, Mable Armistage Moore, the only white woman to belong to the Native (Indian) Brotherhood of B.C. Tom's wedding gift made history. It was the embalmed heart of the Marquess of Montrose, who was executed in 1650!

A tribute to Victoria was paid by departing New York girl Pat McAllister, who had spent the past three years here. A young woman who has travelled widely, Pat described the capital as "very quaint and very friendly; it's like no other place I've ever been. I loved it every minute."

Don McAllister, Pat's husband, has been transferred to Vancouver as assistant to the president, Island Tug and Barge, and the couple have spent the past few days moving.

Last of the Christmas guests at the Empress Hotel—Dr. D. F. and Mrs. Kimball of La Crescenta, Calif.—checked out of the Empress Hotel today.

"This is the fifth year we have spent Christmas and New Years at the Empress," Dr. Kimball said. "We always have a wonderful time."

The hotel entertained more than 600 guests over the holiday. It returned to normal today with the dismantling of Christmas decorations.

Retail clerks' agent John Nicol had some Boys' Parliament delegates for breakfast last week, and the conversation got around to politics.

Someone asked a delegate who he liked in the provincial government. The boy thought a moment before answering seriously:

"Why do you like him?" John asked.

Another moment of thought passed before the still-serious reply:

"Because he's the only old teen-ager in the government."

The three men aboard the lifeboat have a lot to their credit. They answered the first call for help from the freighter Monday night and apart from a brief trip to Uclulet for food Tuesday night have been on the stormy scene without a break.

HARDY PEOPLE

They typify the interest of the hardy people on the West Coast of Vancouver Island in the drama being enacted nearby.

With Times photographer Bill Halkett, I was forced to spend Tuesday night at the small community of Bamfield some 20 miles from where the Glafkos is fighting for her life.

Gale force winds and zero visibility prevented us from going any further in a Victoria Flying Services Cessna 180 float plane piloted by Ron Stensrud.

All through the evening, small groups of people gathered around radio and television sets and at the lifeboat station to get the latest word on the rescue operations.

CANADA URGED TO GET OFF THE FENCE

WASHINGTON (CP)—Former state secretary Christian Herter said today Western Europe seems to be reacting favorably to his proposal for an economic partnership among NATO countries but that "Canadian reaction is somewhat mixed."

"Canadian policy with regard to the European Common Market seems to be still in a state of flux," Herter told a press conference held to focus attention on a citizens' convention of NATO countries opening in Paris next Monday.

Herter and William L. Clayton, undersecretary of state in the Truman administration, head a 20-member non-political American delegation. Canada is to send a delegation of seven.

Herter and Clayton have joined in a proposal that the 15 NATO countries form a trans-Atlantic partnership, advocating lower tariffs and a greater flow of trade. Clayton said he would like to see both Canada and the United States become associate members in the European Common Market.

'Fertile Crescent' Favored

BEIRUT (AP)—Interior Minister Kamal Jumblatt, a disciple of President Nasser of the United Arab Republic, charged today that last week-end's unsuccessful rightist uprising in Lebanon was linked to British fleet movements in the Mediterranean.

In a statement to the newspaper L'Orient, Jumblatt expressed views similar to those published in Cairo, Baghdad and other Middle Eastern capitals. The plotters opposed Nasser's pan-Arab nationalism and favored a "fertile crescent" union of Lebanon, Syria, Jordan, Iraq, Palestine and Cyprus.

The authors of the attempt went into action only after having made sure of the movements of the British fleet in the Mediterranean, he said.

rocks and into the handiest sheltered cove in Barkley Sound, where patching could be done before towing the Glafkos into Esquimalt for survey.

Lifeboat on Job

Since the freighter was hung up on the rock pinnacle Monday, the Bamfield lifeboat has been standing by on an almost continuous basis, tossing perilously in the heavy swell sweeping in from the open Pacific.

An RCAF search-and-rescue helicopter was at Tofino ready to render aid, and this morning made several passes over the wreck, ready to drop auxiliary equipment on board, if needed.

While the freighter was on the rock, she was in peril of breaking up, pounding up and down and swinging like a compass needle in winds which gusted up to 60 miles an hour.

A veteran seaman described the area where the Glafkos went aground as "about the worst on this coast."

He said the rocky underwater shelf extended out, shallowly, and that seas coming in from the Pacific "built up tremendously" along the shelf.

"It is just a cove wide open to the sea," he said. "Even when the wind eases off, the waves stay high."

Flooded Quickly

The freighter ran aground in dense fog Monday evening. At 7.44 p.m., her master, Capt. E. Petratos, wirelessly that the ship was hard aground, holed and taking water in the engine room.

The engine room must have flooded quickly, because the Glafkos' radio conked out between 8.15 and 8.30 p.m.

Island Tug despatched the two big towboats to the scene; lifeboats from Tofino and Bamfield and an RCAF helicopter stood by to take off the crew if necessary.

Around noon Tuesday there were conflicting reports that the crew had asked to be taken off, and that seas were too high. This was denied by both Tofino and Bamfield lifeboat stations.

Glafkos is a Canadian-built wartime freighter, launched as Ss. Algonquin Park, and now owned by Polyna Marine Co., Piraeus, Greece. She was bound from Japan to Vancouver in ballast.

The new province was named Irian Barat (West Irian) and the capital of Hollandia was made Kota Baru (New City).

The proclamation said Sukarno will appoint a governor and members of parliament for the province and define their powers.

The announcement came on the heels of Dutch Premier Jan de Quay's announcement that The Netherlands was willing to drop its insistence that self-determination for the 730,000 natives of West New Guinea must be a prior condition to any talks with Indonesia.

LETTER PUBLISHED

Dorion Sends Affidavit Copy to Dief

TORONTO (CP)—The Star Tuesday published what it described as a photostatic copy of a typewritten letter in French dated April 17, 1958, and signed "Noel Dorion," which thanks the late Weillie Cote, then chief of Quebec liquor police, for 1958 election campaign services. Mr. Dorion has denied writing the letter.

Mr. Dorion, member of Parliament for Belchasse, is state secretary and president of the Privy Council.

Le Nouveau Journal of Montreal says Mr. Dorion Monday gave Prime Minister Diefenbaker a copy of an affidavit by his secretary, Elizabeth Parent, saying she typed and signed the letter when asked to do so by an unnamed person.

The Star, in an Ottawa dispatch, carried an English translation of the letter. It thanked Cote and asked him to convey thanks to seven members of the liquor police force, which now is disbanded.

Three of the men mentioned in the letter—former members of the police board C. A. Faucher and Roger Perfi, and liquor inspector Rene Mercier—were mentioned during a parliamentary investigation into the liquor force's affairs. Mr. Dorion at the time denied they had worked for him.

U.K. MAY OFFER ISLE FOR A-TEST

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Macmillan and the cabinet met today to discuss whether to offer the United States use of Christmas Island for nuclear weapon tests.

There was no immediate sign whether the British ministers had agreed to make the Pacific Island available to the Americans.

Government sources said, however, they expect a positive answer to be sent to Washington within the next few days.

The question of using Christmas Island for a widely expected series of atmospheric tests was raised when Macmillan met President Kennedy in Bermuda Dec. 20-21.

The president has not announced a decision on whether to resume such tests. But he and Macmillan agreed it would be prudent to prepare for them.

FATHER HIKES 25 MILES WHEN CAR STUCK

Family Survives Ordeal in Snow

GRAND FORKS (CP)—Burnaby businessman Douglas M. McLellan, who passed several "road closed" signs and drove down an unfinished highway, was resting in a hotel here today after a 25-mile walk through snow and cold for help.

His 15-year-old son, Ross, was in hospital in fair condition, suffering frostbite. Hospital authorities said he may lose some toes.

Mr. McLellan's wife, Virginia, and three other children, were in Castlegar, 60 miles away, after spending a cold and lonely night in the family's stranded car.

RCMP here said Mr. Mc-

Lellan and his family were returning from a New Year's holiday with relatives at Salmo, 15 miles south of Nelson. At Castlegar, Mr. McLellan turned on to the Blueberry-Paulson cutoff, a new unfinished stretch of the southern transprovincial highway.

STUCK IN SNOW

About 20 miles out of Castlegar, the car became stuck in heavy snow.

Mr. McLellan, apparently unaware of how far he had travelled, set out with his son, Ross, to get help from Grand Forks, almost 40 miles to the west. His wife and the three other children remained in the car.

Some time later, young Ross said he could not keep up with his father. Police said Mr.

AMERSHAM, England (Reuters)—Earl Attlee celebrated his 79th birthday in the hospital here where he has been since Dec. 5 after suffering a heart attack.

Mr. McLellan reached the tiny community of Christina Lake early Tuesday after walking 25 miles from his car. A resident there drove him to Grand Forks where RCMP went out to pick up Ross. RCMP from Castlegar rescued Mrs. McLellan and the other children.

Temperature in the area dropped to about 25 degrees that night.

QUADS BORN IN U.K.; MOTHER, BABES FINE

SOUTHEND, Eng. (UPI)—A 35-year-old housewife gave birth to quadruplets—two boys and two girls—here today.

Officials at Rochford Hospital in Southend said the mother, Mrs. Phoebe Meacham, of Leigh-on-Sea, England, and the four babies "are doing as well as can be expected."

Two of the babies weighed three pounds, eight ounces at birth. A third weighed three pounds, three and a half ounces, and the other two pounds, seven and a half ounces.

Mrs. Meacham and her husband, Ronald, 28, a gardener, have one other son, Ronnie, seven.

'I COULDN'T CONCENTRATE'

Lovesick Champion Quits Chess Tourney

HASTINGS, England (Reuters)—Chess champion Lisa Lane prepared to go home to New York today after withdrawing from the Hastings international chess congress because she was lovesick.

The 24-year-old beauty declined to give the name of the man who tormented her chess concentration but said she was flying to New York Friday to be near him.

Questioned later about reports linking her with New York newspaper man Neal Hickey, she told reporters: "It is quite true that I know him."

But she added: "I am discussing only my own feelings and I cannot speak for him."

Miss Lane, holder of the American women's chess championship, withdrew from the Hastings tournament Tuesday defaulting in four games and being held to a draw in the fifth.

Asked why she was withdrawing, she said it was because she was in love with a man back home and wanted to be near him.

"I just couldn't concentrate on my game for thinking about him," she said. "It's no use. I'm a woman. I can't stay away from him any more."

MORE MEETINGS PLANNED

Allies Briefed On Berlin Talks

MOSCOW (Reuters)—The British, French and West German ambassadors called at the American Embassy here today to get a first-hand account from Llewellyn Thompson about his contacts with Soviet officials on Berlin.

The American ambassador sent invitations to Sir Frank Roberts of Britain, Maurice Dejean of France, and Hans Kroll of West Germany following his 2½-hour meeting with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko Tuesday.

Thompson's visit to the Soviet foreign ministry was his first contact with the Russians under his instructions to sound out Soviet feelings on Berlin to see whether a reasonable basis exists for East-West negotiations.

Thompson said "there will be other meetings" but he could not say when. There was no hint here how the first contact passed off, but Thompson said that if the preliminary talks were a success they were likely to lead to a foreign ministers conference.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Preliminary reports indicate Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko did not offer any new proposals on Berlin in his conference with U.S. Ambassador Thompson, informed sources say. But a sudden change had not been expected.

The officials said they expected Thompson will be instructed to meet Gromyko again fairly soon in an effort to find a solution to the problem.

President Kennedy was described as believing it important to keep open the diplomatic contact with the Russians.

Proof of the Pudding

IT IS SAID THAT MR. FLEMING defeated the Prime Minister's attempt to demote him by threatening outright resignation. But apart from the cabinet quarrel what does Mr. Fleming's victory really amount to? We shall see as soon as he brings down his next budget, if he ever brings it down.

Any cabinet is a shifting agglomeration of personalities never (except in outward ritual) a single, solid fact. A budget, however, is a solid fact, the ultimate agreement on which any cabinet must stand or fall. Hence the test of Mr. Fleming in his dispute with the Prime Minister is the government's volume of expenditure in the next fiscal year and the means by which the money is raised.

Has Mr. Fleming begun at very long last to put the financial affairs of Canada in order? That is the real question arising out of last week's melodramatic events at Ottawa and Quebec City.

An installment of the answer, presumably, will appear soon after Parliament meets on January 18. Mr. Fleming must bring down his estimates and they will show what he proposes to spend in the year beginning April 1. Later on, if this Parliament still exists by that time, he will bring down his budget and show how he proposes to tax the Canadian people.

The unpleasant revelations of the budget can be avoided, of course, by a quick dissolution of Parliament and an early election and that, perhaps, is what Mr. Diefenbaker plans. If so, he will ask the voters to sign a blank cheque to be cashed by the government if it is re-elected.

It is hard to believe that Mr. Fleming will lend himself to such a shoddy trick. He knows that though a prime minister is constitutionally entitled to a dissolution at any moment, on any pretext, yet the government is morally bound to disclose the true state of the nation's business before it seeks another mandate of office.

Besides, if Mr. Fleming is actually determined to reconstruct the nation's finances he must start now while he is in a special position of power. As was proved last week at the sticking point, Mr. Diefenbaker cannot afford to demote or unload Mr. Fleming before an election. After an election if he is safely back in power, Mr. Diefenbaker can dispense with his prickly colleague. Mr. Fleming will then be expendable. His chance to control the treasury will not last many months even if, as seems improbable, the government is re-elected.

Already Mr. Fleming has delayed far too long. The horse of deficits, high interest rates and monetary inflation is a long way down the road when, apparently, Mr. Fleming intends to lock the stable door. And to lock it, Mr. Fleming must undertake the fifth great reversal of his curious career.

He came to office on the proposition that the former Liberal government was idiotically piling up revenue surpluses to reduce the national debt and thus "over-taxing" the people. He promised to balance the budget.

Instead, he plunged into huge deficits. But in the spring of 1960 he announced that, according to plan, he had balanced the budget at last and looked forward to revenue surpluses of the sort which he had condemned in his opposition days. That was the first reversal.

The second came last June. Mr. Fleming's balanced budget of 1960 had produced another huge deficit and now he announced that deficits, in a time of slack business, were a good and desirable thing after all. Accordingly, he budgeted for a record deficit and it seems to have exceeded even his estimates.

In a third reversal he maintained, up to last summer, that the government had no control over the nation's monetary policy as managed exclusively by the Bank of Canada, and then he suddenly attempted to dismiss Mr. Coyne because the Bank wouldn't obey the government's instructions. The government took control of monetary policy which Mr. Fleming had said it could never do under the existing law.

The fourth reversal was last year's decision to devalue the Canadian dollar, though Mr. Fleming had argued powerfully in 1960 that this was unthinkable, a reckless gamble.

After such an erratic record it is difficult to guess whether Mr. Fleming seriously intends to embark on a fifth reversal, attempt to bring the budget into something like a balance and halt the present inflation of the currency.

If he does intend to do that then he has won a great and honorable victory indeed, not only over the Prime Minister and the cabinet but over himself. And if he has won such a double victory we hope he will produce the proof of it, in an early budget, before Parliament is dissolved into the confusion of an election campaign.

A Safely Driven Holiday

CAR DRIVERS IN THIS COMMUNITY escaped serious accident over the Christmas-New Year period and deserve high marks for the accomplishment.

Under conditions which might have been expected to cause them trouble — wet, dark streets, conviviality and heavy traffic — they avoided fatalities and did their best to assure a happy motoring end to one year and a good beginning to a new.

A Fine Gift to B.C.

THE PLEASURE BOAT FRATERNITY and British Columbians in general have every reason to thank Captain E. G. Beaumont for his generous gift of magnificent property on Bedwell Harbor to the provincial parks branch for use as a marine park.

The gratitude of the Victoria Power Squadron for this benefaction has been expressed by its commander, Mr. Garth Griffiths, who speaks, no doubt, for many others beyond the squadron's membership.

How Much and From Whom?

THE QUESTION OF ELECTION campaign funds and their origin has never received an adequate answer in Canadian politics. At present the sources are commercial or private — and secret. This has two possibly adverse results. It may mean that the party which can command the largest contributions will gain or retain power regardless of its real worth; it may mean that the party so elected will take office under a debt to private interests.

Neither of these alternatives can be healthy, neither should be perpetuated. Yet so far Canada has done nothing to safeguard itself, either in the federal or provincial fields, against such abuses.

Mr. Pickersgill, a leading member of the Liberal hierarchy, proposes that all election campaign funds be provided from the public treasury, that private donations be forbidden. This would ensure equitable division of funds and full publicity as to amounts available for spending.

There would be problems of administration, of course, but at least the principle would be established, and secret donations — with their implications of party pressure on the one hand and influence in government on the other — would become illegal.

Mr. Douglas, leader of the New Democratic Party, has agreed with Mr. Pickersgill on this point. This would be an appropriate time for the Conservative Party also to face the situation.

Election expenses are heavy these days, but they constitute a legitimate part of the democratic process. The issues of the campaign must be placed before the electorate by the candidate in person and through the various media available. This takes money. But in fairness to all parties there should be limits on the amounts spent and, until a better system can be devised, there should at least be a full disclosure of the amounts and sources of all campaign funds over a small minimum.

It Happened Before, It'll Happen Again

THIS is the season when seers and soothsayers shine up their crystal balls, examine their palms, gaze at the stars, toss a coin or two and announce what is going to happen during the coming year. It is also the season when the average householder, noting the arrival of the seers, tries to remember where he put last year's forecast.

In a third reversal he maintained, up to last summer, that the government had no control over the nation's monetary policy as managed exclusively by the Bank of Canada, and then he suddenly attempted to dismiss Mr. Coyne because the Bank wouldn't obey the government's instructions. The government took control of monetary policy which Mr. Fleming had said it could never do under the existing law.

The fourth reversal was last year's decision to devalue the Canadian dollar, though Mr. Fleming had argued powerfully in 1960 that this was unthinkable, a reckless gamble. After such an erratic record it is difficult to guess whether Mr. Fleming seriously intends to embark on a fifth reversal, attempt to bring the budget into something like a balance and halt the present inflation of the currency.

If he does intend to do that then he has won a great and honorable victory indeed, not only over the Prime Minister and the cabinet but over himself. And if he has won such a double victory we hope he will produce the proof of it, in an early budget, before Parliament is dissolved into the confusion of an election campaign.

There will be reports of quiet in the Congo, followed closely by reports of renewed strife.

The city council will try to reverse their stand on one of the centennial plans, but the mayor will hold them to their decision.

There will be public protests against Canada becoming a nuclear power. Mr. Diefenbaker will announce that Canada will almost certainly probably never right away become a nuclear power. Building of Canada's nuclear power bases will quietly continue.

There will be public cries: "We have no centennial plans!"

The centennial committee will issue a list of its centennial plans.

There will be reports of peace in Algeria, followed closely by reports of renewed strife.

London will get closer to entering the European Common Market. Ottawa will protest.

Victoria and Ottawa will almost reach agreement on the Columbia. But not quite — there will still be a few weeks to go.

There will be public protests that the city has no centennial plans. The centennial committee will issue a list of its centennial plans.

There will be reports of peace in Vietnam, followed closely by reports of continued strife.

Victorians will remark on the "unusual weather" this year. It will be (a) good, or (b) bad.

Victoria and Ottawa will almost reach agreement on the Columbia. But not quite. There will still be a few days left.

It will be found that there are not enough school rooms for the school children. Figures will be issued showing it will be even worse next year, unless ...

There will be reports of quiet in the Middle East, followed closely by reports of renewed strife.

London will have talked with Washington; Washington and London will have talked with Bonn. Paris, Washington and Bonn will have talked with Moscow. They will all have agreed to hold further talks.

The United Nations will be reported as going bankrupt. Members will say the world could not get along without the UN. Most members will continue in arrears.

The city council will try to reverse their stand on civic improvement, but the mayor will hold them to their decision.

Somebody will bring in a last year's rose and a next year's strawberry. Everybody will say, "Remarkable! Can you imagine!"

The year will end and a new one will begin, regardless of whether there are any people here or not.

Quebec Separatism: Tinder for the Spark

AT a very dark period of the Second World War, a column of troops under General Leclerc marched north out of Chad to attack the Axis garrisons in Libya. For the most part they were Negro soldiers rallying after the fall of France, to the call of General de Gaulle. They had been promised a New Deal in the spirit of the Atlantic Charter. Few of them had ever heard of Quebec and fewer would ever see it. Yet, without realizing it, they carried in their knapsacks — Quebec separatism.

This may appear fanciful and, as these articles will show, it is only one part of the story. But it is a fact that M. de Gaulle, after the failure of half-measures, redeemed the war-time promises by granting independence to all the territories of black Africa.

All today are members of the United Nations. Some have sent French-speaking students to be educated at Quebec universities. Practically everyone with whom I spoke in Quebec noted the impact of these developments on the young people of the province.

If self-determination for Mali, why not for Quebec? Dr. Marcel Chaput, leader of the largest and most moderate separatist movement, himself persistently presses this argument.

Some of the visiting students, according to a professor at the University of Montreal, find the notion of Quebec separatism a bit ludicrous. Not so those about them who, like the nationalists of some other countries, are remarkably disinclined even to consider the practical implications of a separatist course.

Advanced Community

Quebec, whatever its imperfections in the eyes of French Canadian radicals, is an advanced Western community. As M. Jean Louis Gagnon, editor-in-chief of Le Nouveau Journal and no separatist, accurately observed: "We are more than all the French in Africa. We are the second largest French-speaking community in the world."

It is not, of course, simply a question of numbers. Many people, of both races, spoke to me of a "renaissance" of French Canadian culture, expressing itself in arts, letters, language — and, as a consequence, of the disappearance of what they called Quebec's inferiority complex.

coming of age at the very time when that culture begins to feel its ties with the international community of French cultures.

For a spark to strike fire, there must be tinder lying around. Separatism, in one form or another, has had a long, if fitful, history in Quebec. I discussed this background with M. Andre Laurendeau, editor of Le Devoir and once a leader of the Bloc Populaire, the nationalist movement which achieved considerable importance during the Second World War.

M. Laurendeau rejected the suggestion that the new separatism was a legitimate heir of the old Bloc. The older movement, he explained, stopped short of separatism. It was concerned, primarily, with the terms on which the two cultures could inhabit the same house. There was, however, a distinct separatist tradition in Quebec going back to about 1903 when certain extremists challenged the views of Henri Bourassa, the leading nationalist of that day.

Summer Lightning

This was mere summer lightning; a flash and it was gone. But the situation at the end of the First World War was different. There was a feeling that, in the world at large, the old empires were going down the drain. Confederation had been weakened by the conscription crisis which set race against race. A group of French writers led by the Abbe Groulx (Father, afterwards Cardinal, Villeneuve among them) published a series of ten articles, an inquiry into the conditions of survival for the French people in Canada.

For the first time a Quebec group addressed itself in a serious spirit to such questions as these: Was it possible for French Canadians to "take back their freedom"? Was a separate state, if not an immediate prospect, at least a legitimate aspiration? What sort of political life should they seek?

Once again these stirrings came to nothing. For one thing M. Bourassa frowned on separatist talk. For another, India, with her 300,000,000 people, seemed helpless at that time against the might of the British empire. How foolish then for a few million French Canadians to aspire to independence.

But separatism flared into new life with the depression of the 1930s. The nationalist movement, Le Jeune Canada, founded in 1932, was separatist by 1934. This development was favored by the political situation of that time. For, on the one hand, Quebec was in revolt against the provincial (Taschereau Liberal) regime and on the other against Mr. Bennett who, lacking a Conservative colleague of stature in Quebec, appeared coldly unsympathetic to French aspirations.

He had on one occasion, in the course of a legal argument, compared the French-Canadians to the Maoris and while the remark was not, apparently, intended in a derogatory sense, it was long and resentfully remembered in Quebec province.

The weekly La Nation, which began to appear in 1936, was edited by an avowed separatist, Paul Bouchard. Separatism in those days went hand in hand with Fascist ideas drawn, not from Germany, but from Mussolini's corporate state.

Now, after a quarter of a century, it has appeared again, free at least in its main stream — of Fascist infection. It is, say many people, "not important." But over and over again one hears the qualification, "Not yet."

I asked M. Laurendeau why it was that so many prominent leaders bother to attack so insignificant a movement. His explanation was most interesting.

Separatism, he said, "acts like a catalyst. It forces people to take positions. Some of these positions will be examined in succeeding articles."

DENNIS THE MENACE

WASHINGTON:

After the Shake-Down

By JOSEPH ALSOP

IN deep snow, but in an atmosphere of great gaiety and renewed hope, President Kennedy was inaugurated just a year ago. Now, as 1962 begins, it is in order to try to assess the performance and development of this new American Administration. The hope of the first month or two — the hope that the vast, intractable problems inherited by the new President could somehow be solved in a trice — has quite plainly not been realized. It was an illogical hope, never shared by Kennedy himself. But it was a hope naturally inspired by the novel style and dash, the comparative youth, the obvious energy, and the very high average of intelligence of the new man in Washington.

The let-down, when the impossible proved to be impossible, did the new Administration considerable harm abroad.

The President's authority as leader of the Western alliance, even today, continues to be somewhat impaired because America's allies at first expected too much and were therefore disappointed. But the let-down quite plainly did the new Administration a great deal of good here in Washington.

After the let-down, in fact, came the shake-down that every new Administration always needs. The new men began to adapt the governmental machinery to their purposes, to adopt settled viewpoints towards the great tasks confronting them, and to form regular habits of working with one another.

Striking Features

This period of shaking down has now closed. At its close, the Kennedy administration presents certain rather striking features.

Of these, the most striking is the extreme competence that is the rule in most areas of government. The domestic departments, to begin with, attract little notice, either from the President or the country. Yet they are decidedly more ably staffed, on the average, than they have been in a very long time.

At the end of its 1961 shake-down cruise, in fact, the aspect of the Kennedy administration is highly reassuring — in every governmental area save one.

In the area of foreign policy, many exceedingly able men have been put to work, headed by Secretary of State Rusk. But in this area there is nothing like the coherence, unity of viewpoint, and clarity of purpose that marked the great American policy-teams of the past, as in the best and most creative years of Harry S. Truman.

Two reasons for this difference are obvious. On the one hand, the problems that now have to be solved are uglier and more intricate. On the other hand, it is no longer so easy for the U.S. to solve great world problems by its own sole act.

Changed Conditions

The men who invented the Marshall Plan, and thus saved Western Europe, would not be able to invent any comparably world-improving measure today.

But even after due allowance has been made for the greatly increased difficulties in the area of foreign policy, a nagging question-mark remains.

Coherence in foreign policy first of all depends on general acceptance, by all the policy-makers, of a given order of priorities. When the claims of the Western alliance have been weighed, for instance, against the claims of the less developed countries, everyone needs to agree about which claims should be put first.

There are scores of such conflicts of priorities, with the United Nations in the middle of a good many of them. Coherence is impossible without well-established priorities, because this lack causes one set of claims to be given the heaviest weight at one moment, and another set at another moment.

Very obviously, an argument about foreign policy priorities has been going on within the Kennedy administration since inauguration day. The argument's pattern has rarely been absolutely clear, but its effects have been visible.

A major stage of the argument was clearly passed when the State Department was reorganized, and Chester Bowles was shelved. But the argument will end for good and all only when the President imposes his own viewpoint on all foreign policy-makers — who really matter, just as Roosevelt did and Truman also did.

From Our Files

Jan. 3, 1902 — Spokane: The father of three children shot his eldest daughter to death and then put a bullet through his own heart on New Year's Eve in front of the child's mother.

Jan. 3, 1922 — Ottawa: Minting of Canada's first five cent nickel coin is to begin this week. Silver coins will still be used.

Just a Cockeyed Optimist

AT the end of the year I listened to an expert summing up the events of 1961. It wasn't a pleasant review. Nations, as he pointed out, had lurched from crisis to crisis.

"For the first time since John Dean set up his own gravestone in pessimistic anticipation of the event to come, I thought the old boy probably had something. Mr. Dean originally had the stone mason inscribe: 'It is a rotten world. Its saving grace is the artlessness of the young and the wonders of the sky.'"

Stott

A little later, after he had been trimmed in a civic election I think, he inserted another line saying: "Artful politicians are its bane."

Mr. Dean is perplexed no more by human nor divine. But, if the expert was correct, he composed an epitaph that seemed to convey the spirit of this battered old planet in the year now gone.

The expert, in the last day or two of December, left me with the chilling observation: "Worse is still to come."

Maybe, and yet—

In a week's heavy visiting, from Dec. 22 to Dec. 29, I was never in a group where the sorry state of things in general was discussed. Conversation there was plenty. Occasional reference there was to sorrow, as someone expressed sympathy for the misfortune of another. But on the whole, the talk was cheerful. People recalled the good that had happened.

In a larger sense, I guess, the good was indirect. The worst that had been feared didn't materialize. Nobody dropped the bomb. Nobody started a world war, though all the combustible seemed assembled. Nobody in my acquaintance saw a son, brother or husband off to battle and later was informed he wouldn't be coming back.

I don't for a minute think we were afraid of bogeymen in 1961. But we were conscious, as probably no generation before us has ever been, of the constant risk that attended our days. The danger was there, ever present. But though its threat was greater, it was not given effect in the year.

So we start off with a fresh calendar. Only the extremely innocent will imagine that its days will be free of very grave concern. It will be up to the individual how he reacts. He can live under a cloud of fear and be perfectly realistic in living that kind of life.

Or he can take from the days as they fall the enjoyment that they bring. Babies will be born into 1962 just as they have been born into years since the beginning of time, bringing a particular happiness with them.

The seasons will roll around. Spring will come with its unfurling leaf, its quick thrust of bloom. Summer will follow with golden days of sunshine, mellowing to fall. Perhaps the fish will be biting in those long evenings of August and September, and hearth fires will blaze and glow again when winter brings its sharp, long nights.

Human error could eliminate all this, of course. Or human anxiety could, dim our eyes to the annual miracles to come.

Still, as a very wise man pointed out in a time of breaking of nations, smoke will rise from the heap of couch grass, the maid and her wight will go whispering by in darkness, and these will go onward the same though dynasties pass.

Of course, in great affairs, we can expect to stumble from crisis to crisis—and we may need a lot of luck to emerge from them. At the same time, in a lot of little affairs, we'll be given the same chances of enjoyment that we've had for a long, long time.

Write me off, if you wish, as a grasshopper when I should be an ant, or as a cockeyed optimist when I should be more realistic, but I'm betting on a world that should be reasonably pleasant in 1962, in spite of its cares. It's been that way for half a century to my knowledge. No reason to change it now.

HOME GARDEN

Growing for One Needs Planning

By HILDA RESTALL
 How would we get through January if we couldn't make plans for the bright New Year ahead? It is human nature to plan for something better than we've had in the past and so it will be with all of us gardeners.

First, I would like to encourage those who live alone so that they will continue to grow their flowers and vegetables. I know of several folks who find it definitely worthwhile to grow only for themselves. The occasional surplus is always welcomed by someone unable to grow anything.

By my reasoning, it would be possible for one moderately active person to grow all the fruit and vegetables needed for the year on a single lot, and still have plenty of room for a few shrubs and flowers. Growing for one needs planning so that too much of one kind of produce does not mature at a time.

A few seed sown at intervals will take care of such crops as lettuce, carrots, beets, spinach, turnips, radish, onions, peas and beans.

FOR VARIETY

When it comes to vegetables, grown from plants set but individually, try two each of three varieties of tomato and squash, and several different members of the cabbage tribe. This will give variety and continuity, and space is not wasted on too much of one thing.

Even potatoes can be grown for one person by planting a few each of the early, medium and late varieties. Other crops can be grown before planting the latest and after digging the earliest. Interplanting with quickly maturing lettuce and radish will save space.

NO MONOTONY

For the small fruits, plant a half dozen canes of raspberries, and two each of 18-galls and blackberries, with a couple of black currant and gooseberry bushes, and no one could say there was a possibility of monotony in the diet.

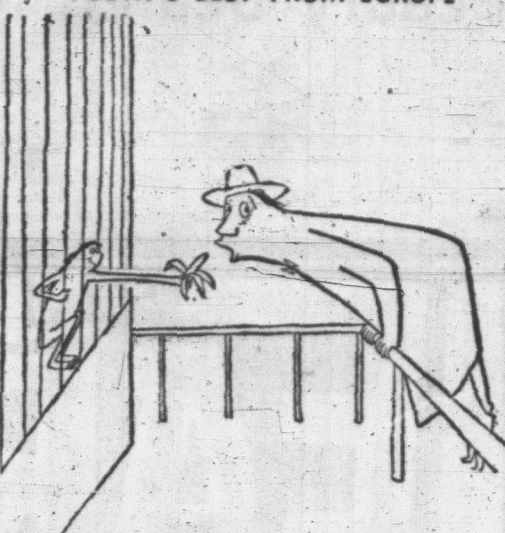

Recommended for tree fruit for one person would be an early apple (Early McIntosh, for instance) and Golden Delicious for a late. These should be the dwarf types for ease and safety in management.

Fertility of the soil needs to be kept high when growing all ones own produce, and an understanding is necessary of the relationship between compost and fertilizers in regard to food crops.

Freeze to Death

OTTA, Japan (AP) — Six Japanese mountain climbers were frozen to death, another is missing, and others are suffering from serious frost bites, police reported Tuesday. Police said the dead were trying to scale 5,863-foot Mount Kijuro on Kyushu Island to welcome the new year.

Indonesia Crisis Alarms Australia

SYDNEY (AP) — Sydney newspapers devote all their front-page news space today to the crisis over West New Guinea.

Daily Mirror headlines say: "Dutch sellout to Indonesia—Sukarno's fiery attack on Menzies."

The Sun, across the top of its front page, says: Indonesia, for the first time, today displayed official antagonism towards Australia as crisis over West New Guinea swiftly developed.

The Sun says editorially, "Asia is edging up on us" and points out that if West New Guinea passed to Indonesia "Australia will have a land frontier with an Asian country". West New Guinea borders on the Australian-administered part of New Guinea.

"Irrespective of rights and wrongs, the Goa and West New Guinea affairs reveal clearly the loneliness of Australia and New Zealand in the Pacific and Indian Oceans."

CRITICIZES SPEECH
 "Britain, France, Portugal have gone or all but gone from Asia, and Holland, it seems, may go fast after them."

Meanwhile, Arthur A. Calwell, leader of the Labor party opposition in the federal Parliament, said Indonesian President Sukarno's "savage speeches" were reminiscent of those made by Hitler at the time of Munich. Calwell declared in a statement on Sukarno's speech Tuesday night that the Indonesian president "had demonstrated how useless his promises were by threatening to use force after having promised not to do so."

The time had more than arrived, Calwell said, for the Australian army battalion in Malaya to be brought home.

Painter Shot

MIDDLETOWN, N.Y. (AP) — Surrealist painter Kurt Seligmann, 61, was found dead of gunshot wounds in the snow in the backyard of his isolated home here Tuesday. Police said a 22-calibre rifle was at his side. The Swiss-born painter had held one-man shows in most of the world's major art capitals.

Castro Excommunicated For 'Impeding Bishops'

VATICAN CITY (AP) — A high Vatican prelate said today Fidel Castro and certain officials of his regime have fallen under automatic excommunication.

Archbishop Dino Staffa, a leading expert on canon law in the Vatican secretariat of state, said excommunication had been incurred by Castro and all Cuban officials responsible for "impeding and imprisoning" Roman Catholic bishops in Cuba.

The statement by Archbishop Staffa was not a formal announcement but was given in reply to a newspaperman's questions.

Archbishop Staffa, who is secretary of the Vatican's Sacred Congregation of Seminaries and Universities, said the excommunication had been incurred without formal announcement by the Vatican.

He said announcement of excommunication in these cases is normally made by the Pope. Vatican sources speculated that Pope John had made no announcement in an effort to avoid further strain in relations between the Vatican and Cuba.

SAYS BISHOP IMPEDED

Archbishop Staffa said bishops had been impeded in their work in Cuba and had been imprisoned, but he declined to give details.

Bishop Eduardo Boza Masvidal was expelled from Cuba along with 135 priests last September. At the time Vatican sources said Castro and his officials might have incurred automatic excommunication.

Effects of excommunication, briefly, are loss of the sacraments of the church and, in a board sense, ostracism from the church of any person so punished. Pardon for this type of excommunication can be given only by the Pope or his delegate.

REPLACES ENVOY

It became known Tuesday that Castro had named a new ambassador to the Vatican, replacing the envoy he recalled in December, 1959. Vatican sources said apparently the Cuban government wants better relations with the Vatican but that this would not affect the excommunication.

President Osvaldo Dorticos, who as a top Cuban official was presumably included in the excommunications, sent New Year's greetings to Pope John, and the pontiff replied. But Vatican sources said the Pope's reply was to the birthday greetings, Soviet Premier Khrushchev sent the pontiff.

Leaders of the Haitian government were excommunicated a year ago under the same provision of canon law after the expulsion of two Catholic bishops. The penalty was announced by the Vatican's Consistorial Congregation.

Chiropractor Fined $50 In Death

MILTON, Ont. (CP) — Donald Moore, 28-year-old Oakville chiropractor, pleaded guilty Tuesday to practising medicine illegally and was fined the maximum $50 and costs.

The charge — and one of criminal negligence — was lodged in connection with the death Sept. 23 of a patient, Mrs. Judith Bentley, 19. The Crown withdrew the criminal negligence charge Tuesday at trial before Magistrate K. M. Langdon.

Magistrate Langdon, in registering the illegal practice conviction, said he was not in a position to say whether reduction in the insulin doses of the diabetic patient had any bearing on her death.

LAOS PACT SOUGHT

U.S. Pushing Rightist Prince

VIENTIANE (Reuters) — American Winthrop Brown met Prince Boun Oum Tuesday amid reports the right-wing premier's government was again defying the United States over attempts to form a Laotian coalition government.

Coalition talks broke down here last week after Boun adopted a tough stand toward his rivals, neutralist Prince Souvanna Phouma and pro-Communist Prince Souphannouvong, although Souvanna later said "the door is still open for further negotiations."

Well-informed sources said Gen. Phoumi Nosavan, strongman defence minister in Boun's government, still has failed to send an important message to Souvanna on the question of the defence and interior portfolios, which both Souvanna and the U.S. say should be held by neutralists. The message was supposed to have been sent by Monday and Ambassador Brown met with Phoumi Monday night to make the American view clear. However, Souvanna left Laos Tuesday by air without getting the message.

BODY DUMPED IN BATHTUB

Society Beauty Beaten to Death

PACIFIC PALISADES, Calif. (AP) — Police sought clues today in the mysterious slaying of a pretty socially prominent mother who was brutally beaten in her $100,000 home and then dumped into a water-filled tub.

Mrs. Doris June Bowman, 32, willowy, honey-blond mother of three and a community leader in this swanky southern California seacoast town, was found dead Tuesday. She was the wife of Dr. Frank Potter Bowman, 39, medical director for the Southern California Edison Company.

A neighbor who brought one of Mrs. Bowman's children home from nursery school shortly after noon found her fully-clothed body in the tub.

Police said an intruder apparently hit Mrs. Bowman several times with a blunt object, dragged her 40 feet from the kitchen into the bathroom and put her body in the tub. The house was not ransacked. Neighbors said they had seen no strangers during the morning, nor had they heard sounds of a struggle in the house. The dogs were locked and there was no evi-

GAS LINK TO ISLAND READY IN 1963

Construction of the natural gas link between Vancouver Island and the mainland may not be completed until some time in 1963, it was reported by Ralph K. Faris, president of Charter Oil Co. Ltd. and of Magna Pipeline Co. Ltd. at the Charter annual meeting in Vancouver.

Testing of the first half mile of flexible armored cable for the 25-mile line was to have been done in northern Scotland last month, but Mr. Faris revealed at the meeting that the test would be held sometime this month.

Earlier it was announced that starting date of pipeline would be contingent on the results of the Scottish tests.

Meanwhile work is to be completed this year on Magna's Olympic Peninsula line with the takeover by Magna of Natural Gas Transmission.

BA Oil Co. Ltd. president E. D. Loughney, in a quarterly report, estimates earnings for 1961 will be somewhat ahead of last year's $30.8 million and, compared with the same period last year, results for the fourth quarter of 1961 will reflect improved earnings from sale of refined products.

Net crude and condensate production for the quarter increased to about 45,000 barrels daily compared with only 34,000 in the same period of 1960 and net gas sales are estimated at 203 million cubic feet daily compared with 178 million.

Sale of refined products also increased but profits from sales continued to reflect the effects of extreme competition.

CCH Canadian Ltd., tax and business law reporting firm, says that in spite of a quarter million increase in population during 1960-61, the Canadian per capita federal tax burden has risen by $12 to $190.9 per person.

For the year ended March 31, 1961, federal tax collections reached a new record of $3,493,700,000, up $345 million from the previous year.

TODAY'S GRAIN PRICES

Table with 4 columns: Grain, Price, Price, Price. Includes wheat, barley, etc.

WINNIPEG (CP) — The Winnipeg grain exchange closed a generally easier tone in quiet trading today.

Flax prices were lower with liberal offerings and hedges in evidence reflecting tight January selling by producers.

Commercial demand was not aggressive although there was some buying on declines as export business overnight to the United Kingdom and Spain.

Barley prices dropped following earlier rallying, tendencies influenced by speculation that the Australian barley surplus was lower than earlier indicated.

Oats prices were lower in quiet trading, while the rye market also showed an easier tone in generally domestic trading.

Class two, IWA and domestic wheat prices, basis lakehead, were all up 1/4 from Tuesday's close.

Many good features developed among industrials but interest generally was somewhat selective.

Gilt-edged securities were quietly firm with the exception of short-dated stocks, which were dull.

Gold shares were firm but business was small. Other sections of the mining market were quiet. Oils were dull.

AT VANCOUVER trading picked up during the morning and prices were higher. Vancouver moved at 21. Cowichan Copper traded at 47. Granducue moved at $3.90. Kamloops Copper was at $7 and Indian Mines at 21. Peel was up to 40. Western Mines hit a high of 96. B.C. Sugar sold at $27.50.

AT NEW YORK — Among Canadian issues Aluminium Ltd. advanced 1/2, Canadian Pacific was up 1/4 and Dome Mines and International Nickel moved ahead 1/4 each.

Distillers Seagrams and McIntyre Porcupine each fell 1/4 while Walker Gooderham declined 1/2.

Prices on the American stock exchange advanced in moderate trading. Brazilian Tractron was up 1/4 while gains of 1/4 were posted by Canadian Marconi and Scurry Rainbow Oil. Fargo oil and Jupiter oils each lost 1-16.

AT MONTREAL prices edged higher on the stock exchange today. Trading was moderate.

Heavy speculative action highlighted trading today on the Toronto stock market.

Featured performers were Lake Dufault, a speculative favorite in recent months, and Northgate, a mining issue which has jumped into the limelight in recent weeks.

Industrials rallied in the final hour to finish ahead 65.

Rails and aluminum perked up in trading today at New York. Trading was moderate.

AT TORONTO base metals were weakened by a one-point loss to Falconbridge and a point drop by Ventures. International Nickel gained 1/4.

In western oils, Hudson's Bay Oil gained 1/4, as did Pacific Petroleum. Home A advanced 1/2.

Give A Few Cheers

By OSCAR FRALEY
MIAMI (UPI) — A few of the New Year's resolutions Fearless Fraley would like to see made along the sports beat now that the time of sport-to-be-fractured premises has arrived:

Sam Snead — To train seriously, even down to roadwork for those 48-year-old legs, in one last big shot at the U.S. Open.

Ray Robinson — To follow Carmen Basilio into retirement before the lumps get bigger than the purses.

Arnold Palmer — To stop counting dollars and start counting strokes in the old saving manner.

Cus d'Amato — To quit acting as if everybody who doesn't agree with him was Frankie Carbo's brother-in-law.

Major League Umpires — To cease and desist from hamstringing it up in such burlesque fashion before the TV cameras.

College Football — To get off its dented derrière and do something definite about its scandalous death and injury toll.

Sonny Liston — To finish the cleaning and dusting and then keep the house in spotless order.

Mickey Mantle — To make additional progress from prima donna to the "new DiMaggio."

Johnny Longden — To hang up the tack while he's so far ahead and before slowing reflexes tempt the ever-waiting rail.

The Cincinnati Reds — To walk with high head and firm tread in the knowledge they were much farther than anybody thought they could just by winning the pennant.

Jack Nicklaus — To say what he means, and mean what he says.

Warren Spahn — To stay loose and easy and not sneer at the same kind of firm grip on the temper he has on his talented driver.

Pro Football — To get together and work out a sensible dual program, world series and all-star game that would mean something.

Roger Maris — To keep laughing all the way to the bank and swinging all the way from the heels.

Jack Price — To run Carry Back a bit more selectively so the final straw isn't piled on the great little horse's back.

Archie Moore — To save some of that end-of-the-trail boxing loot so they don't have to run any benefits for a great fighter.

Bob Cousy — To stop making some of the stepladder basketball brood look so much like awkward automatons.

Floyd Patterson — To meet at least one legitimate challenger this year — or sometime.

Jack (Doc) Kearns — To change the tricks of a lifetime and start banking some of that boxing loot.

Casey Stengel — To take his return to the second division with first division smiles and gasp.

Ford Frick — Not to fall on his asterisk in '62.

All of us — To be better sports, nicer people and give a few cheers to us losers, too.

Howe, Mikita Climb But Andy Is 'Safe'

MONTREAL (CP) — Gordie Howe, 33, the brilliant right winger of Detroit Red Wings, picked up six points last week and took over second place in the National Hockey League individual scoring race.

But the performance still left the all-star nine points behind the leader, Andy Bathgate of New York Rangers.

Official NHL statistics released today show Bathgate leading with 31 points, followed by Howe with 25 and Mikita with 24.

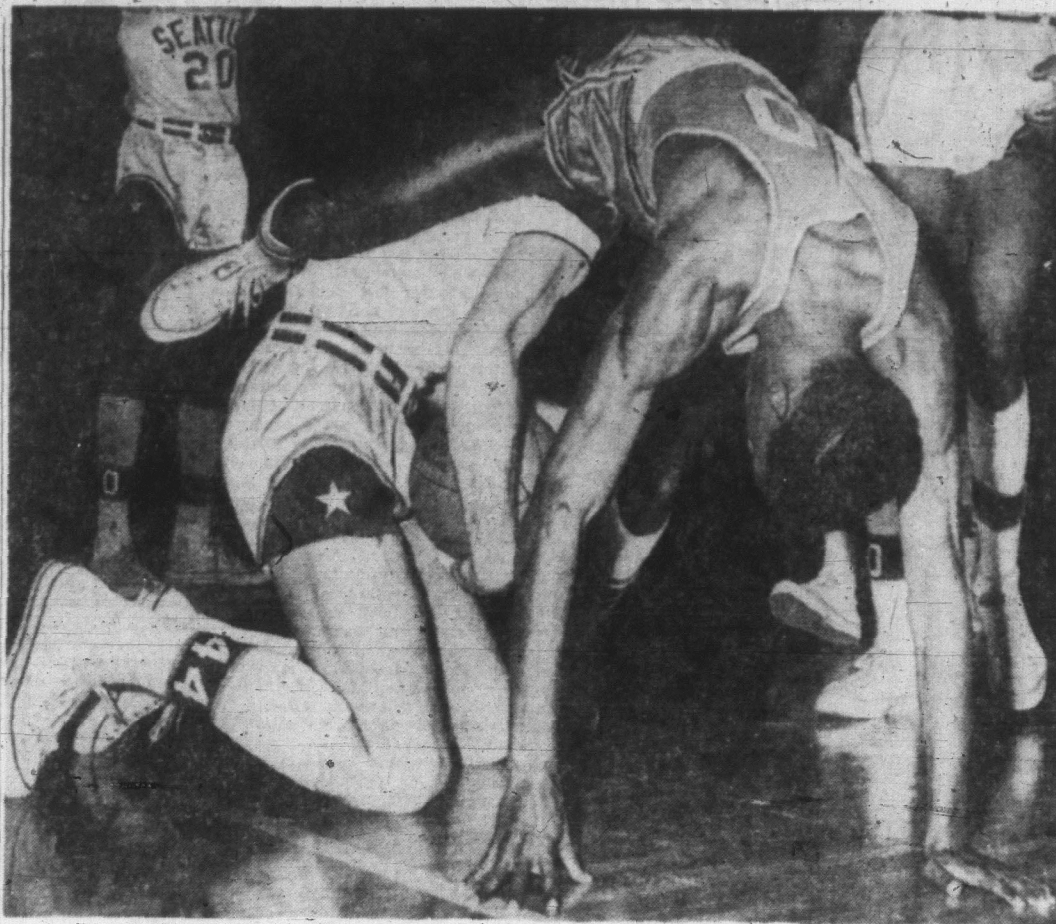

Howe, the league's all-time point leader and winner of the scoring title a record five times, scored four goals and three in one game — and drew two assists for 41 points.

He took over second spot from Claude Provost of Montreal Canadiens. Provost was held to one goal—his 21st of the season—and dropped into third.

NEW YORK (AP) — Quarterback Sandy Stephens of the University of Minnesota today swept both first place and runnerup spot for outstanding one-game performances in the annual United States college football poll conducted by The Associated Press.

The all-America signal-caller topped the balloting with 21 votes for brilliant play against Michigan and received 11 votes for a starting role against Michigan State.

Stephens was also cited for work against Illinois and Iowa.

Performances by Jim Saxton, of Texas; Gale Weidner, of Colorado; and Curtis McClinton, of Kansas, drew nine votes each for third in the poll.

Stephens led Minnesota to a 21-3 victory over UCLA in last Monday's Rose Bowl.

Montreal Alouettes, Cleveland Browns, of the National Football League, and the New York Titans, of the American League, all are trying to sign Stephens, the New York Daily News reports.

In a story from Pasadena, Calif., the newspaper says Stephens was approached by Montreal coach Perry Moss; Titan general manager Steve Sebo, and Cleveland's Paul Bixler after the game Monday.

Stephens refused to commit himself, the paper reports.

He left today for the Hula Bowl game at Hawaii, Sunday.

The Toronto Telegram says that Alouettes, of the Eastern League, are trying to sign Stephens.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Coach Alf Pike of Calgary Stampede was only a few days off on his crystal ball gazing.

Not long ago he predicted the Stampede would be four points out of first place in the Western Hockey League's Northern Division by Christmas. They made it Tuesday night with a point to spare.

The Stampede walloped the lowly Vancouver Canucks 6-2 to strengthen their grasp on second place and move to within three points of the division leaders, Edmonton Flyers.

That is the closest any team has come to the Flyers in two months.

The Canucks, Northern Division cellar-dwellers and lowest scoring team in the league, won a partial victory in another department on Tuesday.

Springfield Indians of the American League demanded the return of defenceman Dale Anderson and utility man Frank Roggeveen.

Anderson stays.

After conversations with the Indians, however, the Canucks announced Anderson will stay and Roggeveen will go.

Loss of the pair would have reduced the Canucks to four defencemen, one of whom is injured.

Sid Finney paced the Calgary attack with two final-frame counters before 1,160 Vancouver fans. Norm Johnson, Ron Leopold, Lou Janowski and defenceman Fred Hucul added singles.

BAIRD GETS GOAL
Rookie Jim Baird and Bob McCusker scored for Canucks, who had a 1-0 first-period lead.

Hucul tied it for Calgary in the second, but McCusker put the Canucks in front again with a power-play goal.

Calgary tied the score at 2-2 and went on to win.

Canucks now have nine wins, three ties and 23 losses in 35 starts for a 21-point total.

Edmonton has 42; Calgary 39 and Seattle 35. In the Southern Division, Portland has 53 points, Spokane 40, Los Angeles and San Francisco 26.

Only one game is scheduled again tonight, Seattle at Edmonton.

SWITCHING BACK TO SATURDAYS

The Thursday experiment is over.

Vancouver Island Amateur Hockey League will play all league games here on Saturday nights.

The league, switched to Thursday, found it didn't draw as well as Saturday (which hadn't drawn well), and has decided to go back to the first place—Saturday.

Port Alberni and Independent Athletic Association will do the honors this Saturday at 7:30.

Navy and Nanaimo wrap up the evening in the Memorial Arena starting at 9.

That 7:30 time is not necessarily static. It may become 8 p.m. Depends on when—or if—league officials decide the televised fights and NHL games clash with the VIAHL.

... BUT ALWAYS HAD RESPECT

Syd Abel and steps on a few of the malcontents.

"Syd" Abel tells a story about his rookie defenceman Howie Young, who takes far too many cheap penalties.

"In the last few minutes of a close game with Montreal, Detroit leading 2-1, the Red Wings defence was very weary."

Abel cautioned the rookie Young, who had been riding the bench all night, to get out there, but please, don't take any penalties. Young promised.

Fifteen seconds later, Young had a two-minute penalty for tripping, five minutes for brawling, and a 10-minute misconduct.

"It's needless to say, Montreal won 3-2."

Pro Golf Receives Ready-Made Star In Dedicated Jack

NEW YORK (NEA) — Jack Nicklaus drove up to the Winged Foot clubhouse on a cold and rainy day a year ago last fall, a pretty girl beside him.

Young Nicklaus telephoned Claude Harmon, invited the Winged Foot professional to play a round with him. There was no one on the course and Harmon didn't choose to venture out in the weather. So Nicklaus played alone.

When Nicklaus finished he again telephoned Harmon to thank his host.

"Why don't you stay over a day, Jack, and we'll play tomorrow?" said Harmon.

"Sorry," replied Nicklaus, "but I'm playing Pine Valley tomorrow. I'm on my honeymoon."

That is the kind of dedicated golfer the professional tour gets, as Nicklaus, the bulky, redish-blond burrhead out of Scioto and Ohio State, joins the money ranks.

Nicklaus currently is in Miami Beach for televised matches. He will make his initial tournament appearance as a

(BB PLUS) "SUSAN SLADE" (Royal): Actually there is nothing very much to complain about in Warner Brothers' adaptation of Doris Hume's novel, "Susan Slade". Acting by a group of handsome, young people headed by Troy Donahue and Connie Stevens, plus veterans of the calibre of Dorothy McGuire, Lloyd Nolan and Brian Aherne, is always professional. Sets and Technicolor photography are excellent and Delmer Daves' direction is of the first water.

But the story, concerning pre-marital relations, love, prayer, agony, baby-having and death, is so arranged that it all adds up to handsomely frothy soap opera.

It all starts with Connie and her parents, McGuire and Nolan, returning to the United States from Chile, where Daddy has been a mining engineer for the past 10 years. Aboard ship she falls for wealthy Grant Williams, who whispers some bedtime stories in her ear that she has never heard before. However, she is happy in that he has promised to come back for her after he has climbed his Alaskan mountain and that he will call in a person. Of course the lad gets killed and the gal finds herself in a bit of a jam.

Before the story unfolds much more Connie becomes the target for two more of cupid's arrows. First of all there is Bert Convy, Aherne's son, and lastly, Donahue, who looks after her riding horse while he bats out stories for fame and fortune.

In the end it becomes most involved as good soap operas are supposed to do if they are worthy of their suds.

But rest assured, it also turns out all right for all those who are still living — another requisite of the sudy plays.

Gas, Water Break Up Revellers

RENO, Nev. (AP) — New Year's revellers, choking downtown Reno's casinos and night clubs, rioted for nearly two hours early Monday.

Police and firemen used tear gas bombs and streams of water to restore order. Clusters of celebrators blocked traffic and yelled insults at policemen.

More than a dozen persons were arrested in the first two hours after midnight.

Hospital attendants estimated they gave emergency treatment to more than 25 persons injured in the melee.

Police said the rioting started when a teenager who had hurled a liquor glass at a policeman was hustled into the patrol car.

The youth was one of a group that had been heckling officers sitting in two cars at Reno's main downtown intersection, officers said.

Two Film Productions In Province

VANCOUVER (CP) — Two action-drama films, one concerning Japanese-Canadians on the West Coast during the Second World War will be shot in Vancouver and in the Kelowna area in the spring.

Commonwealth Film Productions Ltd., officials said a big-name Oriental star is being approached for The Bitter and the Sweet, the feature film about the Japanese-Canadians. It will be shot in Vancouver in May.

The other is Circle of Greed, an outdoor action adventure to be filmed around Kelowna starting in April. Stars will come from Hollywood, but supporting players and extras all will be Canadian or from other Commonwealth countries.

For physical examination and checkup Bing Crosby is in hospital at Santa Monica, California. Crosby was taken to hospital Dec. 22 in San Francisco for treatment of a kidney ailment, but was released the next day.

SINGERS REJECT LOYALTY OATH

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Broadcasting Company said Tuesday night it had barred a folk-singing quartet from appearing on the Jack Paar Show because its members had refused to sign a loyalty oath.

The quartet — The Weavers — said it had unanimously declined when approached by NBC and asked to sign statements that they were not members of the Communist party.

Fred Hellerman, spokesman for the quartet, said "we feel very strongly that no private business establishment such as NBC has the power or the right to require proof of a citizen's patriotism."

The four members of the group are Hellerman, Lee Hays, Ronnie Gilbert and Erik Darling.

Paar was on vacation and was not available for comment.

THREE 25-PASSENGER PLANES PROPOSED

Hearings Due This Month On City 'Copter Service

VANCOUVER (CP) — Air Transport Board hearings on a long-proposed passenger helicopter service between the downtown areas of Vancouver and Victoria are expected to go ahead later this month.

A spokesman for Okanagan Helicopters of Vancouver, which has had a preliminary bid in for the service for almost two years, said Tuesday the company has finally received word from Ottawa that the hearings will be held with in the next 30 days.

He said they will probably be held in Ottawa. Okanagan proposes to spend about $3,000,000 for three verti or Sikorsky twin-turbine helicopters. They have a capacity of 25 passengers each.

TCA PULLOUT? Trans-Canada Air Lines has indicated it is willing to give up its Vancouver-Victoria service and will not oppose Okanagan's application, provided service of equal quality is maintained.

TCA has tentatively offered to handle Okanagan's reservation facilities if the Vancouver firm is successful in its bid.

A former contender for the run, Pacific Western Airlines of Vancouver, withdrew its application earlier this year, after surveying the effect of the provincial government's ferry service to Vancouver Island.

TCA has admitted the government service has cut deeply into air traffic to and from Vancouver Island.

Okanagan officials said they do not want TCA to drop out suddenly if the helicopter bid is successful, but would prefer to phase in rotary-wing aircraft gradually with TCA's airliners.

BRITAIN STILL HELD IN GRIP OF COLD WAVE

LONDON (AP)—Ice and snow maintained a stranglehold over most of Britain today despite the weathermen's promise of a thaw.

For the third day in a row transport struggled at snail's pace across rail, roads and waterways.

Thousands of miles of highway still were coated with hard-packed ice on which motor vehicles slithered in cautious convoys.

LONDON (Reuters)—Britain's current cold snap had this effect—shares in firms specializing in home heating equipment jumped by more than £1,500,000 ($4,200,000) on the London Stock Exchange.

Planned Parenthood Officials Convicted

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP)—Two officials of a planned parenthood centre have been convicted of violating Connecticut's 83-year-old birth control statute.

Dr. C. Lee Buxton, chairman of the obstetrics and gynecology department at Yale Medical School, and Mrs. Richard W. Griswold, executive director of the Planned Parenthood League of Connecticut, were fined $100 each in circuit court Tuesday.

They were charged with advising on the use of birth control devices at the league's Planned Parenthood Clinic here. Police raided the clinic Nov. 10 and it has been closed since.

The clinic was opened to challenge the 1879 statute, which the U.S. Supreme Court last year called merely "dead words."

REFUSED TO RULE

The tribunal refused to rule on the law's validity on the grounds that no one was being prosecuted under the statute.

The league has opposed the law for 39 years.

Judge J. Robert Lacey said Tuesday there was no doubt that the defendants had given advice on the use of contraceptives.

The law bans the use of any drug, medicinal article or instrument for the purpose of preventing conception. A related law states that any person who helps or advises another to break a law can be punished as if he were the principal offender.

APPEAL PLANNED

Miss Catherine Roraback, defence counsel, said she would appeal the conviction to the appellate division of the circuit court.

The league has said it would carry the case as high as the U.S. Supreme Court again, if necessary. The Connecticut Supreme Court of Errors has upheld the law in past test cases.

NEWS THAT he and his wife Oona, 36, are expecting their eighth child next summer was broken by comedian Charlie Chaplin, 72, at a gathering of close friends at his chalet in Crans-sur-Sierre, Switzerland, Tuesday night. The couple's seven other children range in age from two to 17, and Chaplin has two other children, Charles, Jr., and Sidney by his second wife.

U.S. DEATHS LOW

1961 Good Year For Air Safety

WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. scheduled airlines achieved in 1961 a flight safety record bettered only twice since flying became a major industry.

The Civil Aeronautics Board's bureau of safety, reporting this Tuesday, said preliminary 1961 figures indicated a fatality rate on the U.S. international and domestic airlines of 0.29 deaths for each 100,000,000 passenger miles. This was the 10th consecutive year of a fatality rate of less than one per 100,000,000 passenger miles. It compared with the 1960 fatality rate of 0.75.

Castro Sends Envoy

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Premier Fidel Castro has appointed a new ambassador to the Vatican in an apparent move to ease strained relations between his pro-Communist regime in Cuba and the Roman Catholic Church.

Passenger deaths on scheduled airlines totalled 150, including one person on the ground struck by a propeller. The safest year for the airlines in recent times was 1954 with a fatality rate of 0.07. Next best was 1957 with 0.21.

U.S. Builds Forces In Europe

WASHINGTON (AP)—The posting of two more U.S. Army battle groups in Germany will provide the makings of an air-transportable brigade that could deal with trouble in the Middle East, Africa or elsewhere.

The army's high command has wanted for some time to create independent brigades in West Germany and on Okinawa for such a purpose. The Okinawa-based brigade would be intended for use in the Far East and Southeast Asia.

The Pentagon announced Tuesday that three battle groups of the 4th Infantry division, totalling about 6,000 men, will be airlifted to Germany for a NATO exercise from Jan. 16 to Feb. 12.

Two of the infantry battle groups will remain there after the end of operation Long Thrust II for additional training as elements of the army strategic reserve in Europe. The third will return to Ft. Lewis, Wash., following the exercise.

After several months, the two battle groups will be rotated back to the United States and replaced by other units of the 4th Division. In all, the 4th Infantry has five battle groups.

The defence department said these combat elements would be available for use in an emergency.

Started 'Tree Belts'

MONTREAL (CP)—Robson Black, 76, public relations consultant and president emeritus of the Canadian Forestry Association, died last week. One of his ideas, the "Prairie tree planting campaign," still is recognized as a prime factor in the rapid extension of tree belts on Prairie farms.

Log Jam Break Damages Bridge

Heavy Rain Disrupts Cowichan

Heavy rains Tuesday led to damaging of a bridge in the Cowichan Lake area and flooded Cowichan Bay Road at a trouble spot beside the Cowichan Lawn Tennis Club courts, highways department officials said today.

The bridge, on a side road and not interfering with traffic to and from lake points, was damaged when a log jam in a creek "let go" and racing logs crashed into one end of the bridge.

There are up to three inches of water on the Cowichan Bay Road, officials said, and warning signs have been posted. Traffic is proceeding without difficulty at slow speeds. Flooding was caused by overflowing of Cowichan and Koksilah rivers at their lower reaches. There were no reports of homes being threatened.

TOFINO HEAVIEST

Victoria weatherman William Mackie said today the heaviest rainfall on Vancouver Island Tuesday was at Tofino, on the west coast, where 6.28 inches were recorded in the 24-hour period. Estevan Point, 30 miles farther north, had six inches in the same period.

Rainfall in Victoria in the same period was .51 inch, he said.

The weatherman predicted partial clearing for tonight, and increasing cloud again Thursday, with rain late in the day.

Temperatures tonight and Thursday will range between 35 and 48 degrees, and winds will be southeasterly at 25 miles per hour.

ASK The TIMES

Q. Why has tapestry weaving as a form of art declined?

A. Tapestry weaving has regained popularity in this century. Such famous modern artists as Picasso and Matisse have drawn cartoons for tapestries, and there was established in June of last year an international centre for ancient and modern tapestries in Lausanne, Switzerland. This centre plans biennial exhibits, the first to be held from June 15 to September 15 this year.

Q. What is the name of the man who designed the ugly mass of concrete for the new courthouse? E.F.W.

A. No one man can be held responsible. The building was designed by architects of the provincial department of public works.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to The Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve riddles or legal problems. No attempt is made to put a value on valuables, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to a dealer.

FAST-DRIVING PHIL EXPECTS CHAUFFEUR

Highways Minister P. A. Gagliardi said today he expects the government to provide him with a driver.

Mr. Gagliardi, whose licence was suspended for three months after a recent careless driving conviction, was driven to work in Victoria today by a provincial employee who picked him up at Patricia Bay airport.

The highways minister said his job requires considerable travel around the province and he expects someone else to drive him.

"The government will just have to supply me with a driver," he said.

EVERYBODY BUSY

New Mayor Sets City Hall Abuzz

By JOHN MIKA

Mayor R. B. Wilson today set a hectic pace for senior City Hall officials as he picked up the reins of government.

He arrived bright and early for his first regular morning and by 9 a.m. was deep in conferences with various department heads.

The mayor's office was a hive of activity as the officials bustled in and out, bearing reports on the city's operations.

The briefings were sought by the new mayor as he began the task of assembling his thoughts and objectives to be mentioned in the inaugural address Monday.

TWO HEADACHES

Two items stand out as headaches for a newcomer—composition of council's various committees which he has to strike and the impending $6,000,000 drop in the city's assessment roll under the new provincial formula.

Mayor Wilson is expected to retain the 1961 makeup of committees for his first year of office but he likely will redistribute some of the functions assigned to them.

On the assessment front—which promises to force a heavy rise in the mill rate just to maintain present tax revenue—he is expected to decide on making a formal request to the provincial government that it pay a grant in lieu of taxes on government property.

BALANCE LOSS

This would bring in $300,000 from provincial property that now is tax exempt—just about balancing the loss in revenue by lowered assessments.

The city has protested the government tax exemption for years but never has presented a formal brief demanding relief.

The time is ripe for such a move, possibly in conjunction with Vancouver, which also stands to lose a lot now that the B.C. Electric has been taken over by the government, and the new mayor may seize the opportunity to gain at least some help.

TRAFFIC FINES

In city police court today: Thor Hurdal, 3172 Davin, careless driving, $40.

Percy Robinson, Duncan, failed to yield to pedestrian, $15.

David Clough, 2673 Florence, over 30 mph, $30.

Michael Ullock, 3213 Frechette, no insurance, $25.

Grant King, 666 McRae, over 30 mph, $30.

Stanley Shaw, 1240 Glyn Road, over 30 mph, $25.

Terry Matte, 1033 Bewdley Avenue, changing lanes without signal, $15.

HELPING HANDS REACH OUT TO HER

Even big, powerful, deep-sea towboat Sudbury I, veteran of many tough salvage jobs in the Pacific, took a terrific beating as she kept a strain on the towline sufficient to keep stricken freighter Glafkos from drifting ashore without breaking towline. Some idea of size of waves can be gained from photo at top as Sudbury's bow plunged high out of the water. Lower photo shows RCAF search and rescue helicopter (right) making pass over ship, ready to render aid as needed. Battle to save the 10,000-ton freighter began Monday night, after she was holed and had her engine-room flooded on a rock at the entrance to Barkley Sound. TOPICS OF THE DAY

Meeting of the Victoria and District Chrysanthemum Society will be held in the City Hall on Thursday at 8 p.m. Guest speaker will be C. L. Wilson.

A large entry of birds from parts of Canada, is expected at the International Roller Canary Song Contest and Show to be held from Monday to Saturday, January 8 to 13, in the C and C Hall, 906 Government.

An accredited international judge, E. Oakley, will determine the winners in the show, which will be open to the public at 7 p.m. Friday, January 12, and 10 a.m. Saturday, January 13.

A cupboard fire was quickly extinguished at the home of G. L. Bohmer, 563 Manchester Road, at noon today.

A first report that a woman might be trapped in the home proved to be false.

Little damage was done, and fire officials suspected the blaze may have been started by children playing with matches.

Two houses have now tied for first place for the best decorated house in the Junior Chamber of Commerce Christmas lighting contest.

A second count of points scored resulted in a tie for Mr. and Mrs. G. T. Richards, 2560 Nottingham (already announced as winners) and J. W. Potter, 2453 Mowat Street, officials said.

Silver rose bowls will be presented to both winners at a dinner in the Ingraham Hotel next Friday.

Canadian National Railways Veterans' Association, No. 6, will hold a meeting on Friday at 2 p.m. in the Knights of Pythias Hall, Cormorant Street.

A man reported a theft from his car Tuesday but told police he did not know where it occurred.

Ed Dixon, 633 Langford, said that a camel-hair topcoat and a transistor radio were removed from his auto at any one of a number of downtown spots.

City Hall cash registers jingled merrily this morning as a steady stream of property owners paid their 1962 taxes in advance.

Bait dangled by the city to get a head start on its bills was a 4 per cent discount until July 31.

This would give $2.90 on each $100 of tax to the early birds who lined up at the counters on the first day of civic business for 1962.

Two men were remanded until January 4 in Saanich court, Tuesday, after police arrested them in connection with the breaking and entering of a Cordova Bay market.

John Alan Bradshaw and William R. Pick, no fixed addresses, were remanded without plea. They were charged with breaking into Mattick's Market, 5325 Cordova Bay Road, early Tuesday morning.

Magistrate William Ostler set bail at $500.

Victoria civil servants are being offered a special course in basic English.

A series of six lectures starting Jan. 8 will be given under sponsorship of the Civil Service Commission.

Lecturer will be Dr. Robert Lawrence of the English department at Victoria College.

His course will also include instruction in writing technical reports.

Winners of the monthly master points tournament conducted by the Victoria Duplicate Bridge Club were:

Section I: North-South: 1st, Gwen Brown and Tony Marsh; 2nd, Eric Ware and Frank Artlett; 3rd, Elizabeth Warren and Les Stewart. East-West: 1st, Velma Acres and Audrey Jorgensen; 2nd, Molly Collins and Bill McConnell; 3rd, Otto Leemient and Joe Lukas.

Section II: North-South: 1st, (tied) Ida Druce and Dick Lipsey; Isabel Artlett and Lillian Goodwin, Frida and Jim Bawden; 4th, Ethel Cleworth and Jack Goldie. East-West: 1st, Laura Tingley and Eric Goodwin; 2nd, Penny Druce and George Morgan; 3rd, Irene Abels and Bert Jorgensen; 4th, Hildegarde Rundquist and Arthur Millions.

School Days Again For 5,000 Adults

Nearly 5,000 adults will take the courses offered by Greater Victoria School Board this winter.

There will be 234 different classes and a wide variety of subjects ranging from Algebra to gardening and landscaping and including public speaking, Indian folk lore, handwriting analysis, golf, movie-making and international affairs.

Beginning this Friday at 7.30 p.m. in Oak Bay Junior High School is a series of documentary films with live commentaries entitled "The World Around Us." First in the series, "Israel—Rebirth of a Nation," will be given by Ed Lark, well-known American lecturer.

The series continues with movie talks on Tuscany, Yugoslavia, Kashmir and Russia.

Other courses starting next Monday at 7.30 p.m., will include:

Gardening and Landscaping, by William Duff; Effective Public Speaking, by Miss Doris Bagshaw; Folk Lore of the West Coast Indians by George Clutesi; Stone Polishing, by George West.

There will be a special course for adults who have recently acquired movie cameras, given by British film director, Tony Hanes.

H. J. Milne will give a practical golf course in the gymnasium at Victoria High School.

A course in handwriting analysis will be given by Victoria expert Harry Hamlett, and Miss Nova Graham will conduct a series on "The Use of Home Freezers."

Six Badly Injured Dogs 'Put to Sleep' by SPCA

The SPCA picked up six dogs which had been severely injured in traffic accidents over the holiday period.

"All had to be put to sleep," a spokesman at the SPCA animal shelter said. "It seems a great pity dogs should be left to roam the streets so that they are endangered by traffic."

The brighter side of the holiday picture was that 47 dogs and 13 cats at the shelter were adopted by Victoria families during the holiday.

"Most of them were adopted by families with children," the spokesman said. "Animals left in the shelter were well fed thanks to cash donations from our supporters."

INTRIGUING SALT SPRING ISLAND DISCOVERY

Caddy-Like Carving Donated to Museum

An unusual Indian carving looking suspiciously like "Caddy" has been donated to the Provincial Museum by a resident of Salt Spring Island.

Several years ago Miss H. Purdy of "The Maples," Ganges, turned up the stone carving while levelling her lawn. Until last December its light remained hidden under a bushel in the Purdy house.

However, its significance was recognized at once by Mrs.

R. C. Hill who is conducting a survey of Indian sites on Salt Spring.

She persuaded Miss Purdy to donate the find to the museum, and last Thursday provincial anthropologist Don Abbott brought it to Victoria.

Mr. Abbott thought that it might have been a representation of a seal at first, due to the flippers carved on it.

"But now I'm not so sure," he said.

Dr. Clifford Carl pointed out the "upturned snout which seems to indicate a sea lion. Neither expert favored the Cadborasaurus theory.

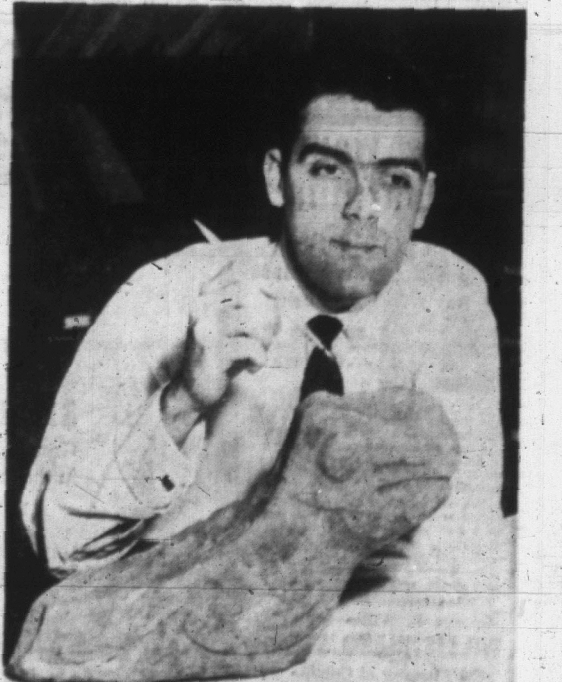

What makes the carving unusual is the bowl in the head of the figure, according to Mr. Abbott.

"The bowl in an animal carving is not uncommon, but usually it is situated in the back," he said. "Here they have obviously utilized the natural shape of the stone."

Another interesting feature is the row of pits down the back of the animal which Mr. Abbott says represents the backbone.

The date of the figure cannot be gauged exactly. Mr. Abbott, however, says that it can be attributed to relatives of Saanich Indians inhabiting Salt Spring.

The animal is carved in sandstone and weighs from 15 to 20 pounds.

SHOPPING GUIDE

Young Set Is Looking At New Spring Suits

By PENNY SAVER

Fashion designers are now thinking about spring and spring clothes are beginning to hit the racks of some ready-to-wear stores. Even children's wear shops are taking up the slogan: "Off with the old, and on with the new."

Some spring suits for the young set are already here and they are lovely, especially the wool knits I've seen in apple green or apricot. They feature Peter Pan collars, short sleeves and an over top with side slits and buttoned back. Skirts are not pleated, stitched to the hipline and with backs elasticized for snug fit. Sheer elegance for the young set! These suits are available in sizes eight to 14 and they sell at $11.95.

Spring is a wonderful time of year, but it has a tendency to be a little deceitful in its early stage. It tempts you to toss off winter clothes with the first mild day. Result—a nasty cold. Take precautions, Mom, and when you buy that new spring suit for your daughter, be sure to consider one of the bulky knit sweaters I was looking at, as well. Sweaters, 100 per cent orlon, are waffle knit—instead of the regular bulky knit and come in white and avocado green. They have pearlized buttons, a snappy collar and long sleeves. There are good ribbed cuffs at sleeves and waist. In sizes eight to 14 they sell at $7.99.

For wee fellows in the family, I've seen the cutest little bow ties. They are made of a vivella material, one half cotton and one half wool, and they are perfect for the little man when he dons his Sunday best. Ties are in tartans and solid colors in almost any shade a young man about town could wish for. They are approximately three and a half inches long and sell for 98 cents.

Waterproof mittens are a practical buy for this time of year. They have an outer layer of nylon, a vinyl interlining and a rayon and nylon fleece lining. Warm and dry, in colors of navy, red or grey, these dandy mits are only 98 cents.

Like to see these items? I'll tell you where to find them if you call me.

Penny, EV 2-3131.

Colors in Home Can Give Big Emotional Uplift

A paint manufacturer from Mexico is astonished to find that most Canadians disregard the psychological effect of color in decoration.

Recent first-time visitor to Canada, Fernando Alfaro of Pinturas ICI de Mexico claims that every Mexican takes advantage of the emotional impact of bright contrasting colors when he paints his house.

"Why, recently I addressed a Mexican women's group and they were most anxious to learn which colors I would recommend to keep their husbands home in the evenings!"

Mr. Alfaro was surprised to find Canadians decorating their homes in pastels which, while pleasant, have little appeal to the emotions. "Mexicans like their colors just as spicy as their foods. For every five gallons of paint we sell, one gallon is red—the brightest, clearest red you could imagine!"

For the kitchen, Mr. Alfaro said a favored combination might be a red ceiling with aquamarine walls. For contrast, white furniture might be used.

"Canadians seem to use the bright colors only as accents. In Mexico, we like vivid hues lavishly used on large areas. The pastels are saved for contrast only."

"Mexicans are emotional people and they aren't afraid of showing their emotions. They react strongly to color, and they use it to influence the way they feel," Mr. Alfaro commented.

The skill of Canadian women in wielding a paint brush or roller is something else which surprised Mr. Alfaro. The do-it-yourself movement in home decorating is only starting in Mexico and normally a painter is hired to do the job. But if a family decides to do its own decorating, the woman chooses the paint and the men put it on.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Take These Old Thoughts Into the New Year With You

At this time of year I think it's appropriate to list some old, perceptive thoughts that we can keep in mind for the new year.

"Some people talk so much, you can read them like a book."—Caroline Clark.

"It's all right to hold a conversation, but you should let go of it now and then."—Richard Armour.

"The reason God made women after he made man was because he didn't want any advice."

"The stars are constantly shining but often we do not see them until dark hours."—Earl Riney in Church Management.

"To strive with an equal is a doubtful thing to do; with a superior a mad thing; with an inferior a vulgar thing."—Seneca.

"You are not permitted to kill a woman who has injured you, but nothing forbids you to reflect that she is growing older every minute. You are avenged 1,140 times a day."—Ambrose Bierce.

"In China, the fifty-first birthday is an occasion of great rejoicing, the sixty-first and seventy-first are progressively happier and grander; while a man able to celebrate his eighty-first birthday is looked upon as one specially favored by the Gods."—Lin Yutang.

"The grave of love is excavated with little digs."

"Luck in what happens when effort and opportunity meet."

Once when George Bernard Shaw was at a party someone asked him if he was enjoying himself. He replied, "Yes, Madam, and it is the only thing I am enjoying."

"Security is mostly a superstition. It does not exist in nature, nor do the children of men as a whole experience it. Avoiding danger is no safer in the long run than outright exposure. The fearful are caught as often as the bold. Faith alone defends."—Helen Keller, in "Let Us Have Faith."

DEAR ABBY . . .

Silence Reigns!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: We would like your opinion on a subject that has caused a lot of discussion around our office. One of the men who works here claims that in the 29 years he has been married he has never had a fight with his wife. He says she has never argued with him, questioned him or disagreed with him. Furthermore, he claims he has never heard her raise her voice. Is this possible?

CAN'T BELIEVE IT

DEAR CAN'T: It's possible, but most unlikely. Perhaps there is something wrong with his hearing.

DEAR ABBY: My daughter is a very mature 11-year-old. About a week ago she started wearing an identification bracelet a boy at school gave her. In her crowd it means she is "going steady."

This afternoon I got a phone call from the boy's mother. (I have never met her.) She said she was terribly upset to learn that her son had given my daughter his I.D. bracelet, and she wanted my daughter to return it. She said the bracelet was a "good" one, and a birthday gift, and she didn't want anything to happen to it. I told her that my daughter did not steal it, it was given to her and, furthermore, I did not run my daughter's life and I hung up on her. Did I do right?

SORRY NOW

DEAR SORRY: You should be. No 11-year-old is old enough to "run her own life." Tell your daughter to return the bracelet, and the sooner the better.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "LOVED AND LOST": Your letter reminds me of an old Chinese story: "One tear met another tear floating down the river. The first tear said, 'I am the tear of a woman who lost her lover.' The other tear said, 'I am the tear of the woman who got him.'"

Are things rugged? For a personal reply, write to Abby Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif., and don't forget a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

WE STILL DO

the many little services so much appreciated by our customers. Whenever your glasses need attention, drop in to either of our two offices where it is always a pleasure to serve you.

Bank Trains Employees in Good Grooming, Customer Relations

TORONTO (CP)—Fashion arithmetic for girls in business consists of simple addition and subtraction, says Anne Balnave, a 26-year-old makeup artist from Sydney, Australia.

Anne is one of a staff of five at a training centre for Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce employees in Toronto.

The centre was opened last month and the bank plans to open similar centres in other parts of Canada.

New employees are given a four-day course that includes customer relations, telephone courtesy, makeup and grooming, and banking. Girls already on staff will be given shorter courses.

In the mirrored beauty room Miss Balnave gives fashion pointers, encourages the girls to exercise and helps them with their makeup.

Her quick course in fashion arithmetic includes the addition of a simple lapel pin to a two-piece suit, a light cologne, a bright hat or purse and shoes to enliven a dark outfit.

AVOID GAUDY DRESS
On the subtraction side are an uneven hemline, swirls of crinolines, stockings in dramatic colors and with uneven seams, pony tails or extreme hair styles, noisy bangles, dangling earrings, sunback dresses without jackets, low necklines and clothes that are too snug—in short anything "that isn't absolutely and unquestionably flattering."

She says the essentials of a well-groomed look are: A daily bath, use of a deodorant daily, frequent use of a depilatory, regular shampoos, clean and neatly pressed clothes, shoes suitable for business, polished and in good repair, and stockings in a neutral shade.

Makeup should match the skin tone and be smoothly blended. Hands should be smooth and well cared for with nail polish unchipped and not too brilliant in color.

TELEPHONE COURTESY
Business and industrial executives consider courteous telephone contacts important since they are often a customer's first dealings with the company. Mrs. McClew, teacher of customer relations, said:

Common speech faults were talking too quickly or in too high or too low a voice, and speaking with gum or cigarette in the mouth.

The telephone should be answered promptly and the conversation terminated as quickly as possible since a busy line was often a liability in business. The person who answers should identify himself immediately.

"Make the person glad he spoke to you," Mrs. McClew said. "Then allow the caller to hang up first."

Robin Maunsell. Gowns were floor length and styled on princess lines. They were wreaths of ivy and small white chrysanthemums in their hair.

Martin Donawa came from Barbados to be best man for his brother, Roland Bishop, who was ushered to their pews.

Receiving guests at a reception in Old England Inn, the bride's mother wore a fine wool sheath gown and matching jacket in brown shade with toning tail toque. Corsage was a single white rosebud.

Rooms were decorated in seasonal decor. A two-tier wedding cake centred the head table. Norman Lidster proposed the toast to the bride.

Leaving on a honeymoon trip to Vancouver, the new Mrs. Donawa donned a chic wool dress in fine black, green and blue stripe, cut on the relaxed line. Black topcoat and accessories completed the ensemble.

Newlyweds will go on to Guelph, Ont., where the groom is completing his studies at Ontario Veterinary College. They will leave for Barbados next summer.

Wed Today at Noon

Dean Brian Whitlow officiated at the ceremony in Christ Church Cathedral at noon today that united Margaret Wendy Love and William Geoffrey Donawa. Holly chrysanthemums and ivy were at the altar. Wedding music included "Sheep May Safely Graze," Purcell's "Trumpet Voluntary" and Mendelssohn's Wedding March.

Parents of the principals are Mr. and Mrs. George H. Love, 1316 Point Street, and Mr. V. O. W. Donawa, Trinidad, B.W.I. and Mrs. E. Donawa, Barbados.

Entering the cathedral on the arm of her father, the bride was lovely in a floor-length gown of white peau de soie. The fitted bodice had a rounded neckline and tight sleeves in elbow length. Skirt was belted. Shoulder-length veil misted from a circlet of peau de soie. White roses, holly and ivy were in the bridal bouquet. Only jewelry was pearl earrings.

Identical gowns of mistletoe green, dusted satin were chosen by the two attendants. They will leave for Barbados next summer.

OF PERSONAL INTEREST

Holiday Skiing on Island

Ski slopes surrounding Forbidden Plateau Lodge attracted many visitors from Victoria and other island points during the holidays. Victoria guests included Mr. and Mrs. C. Fletcher, Mr. and Mrs. E. Jack and daughter, Dr. and Mrs. J. J. Krayenhoff and two children, Messrs. John Wenman, Laird Jones, Dave Davis, D. Singleton, Stewart Patrick, G. W. Colgate, Robert Vosburgh, Don James, Grant Hughes, Ray Pauwels, Daryl Paver, F. G. Scriver, Darcy Gazette, D. G. Ross Smith, K. P. Alexander, John Meikle, Miss Caroline Anderson and the Misses Margaret Smith and Pauline Nunn of St. Margaret's School. Other guests were Mr. and Mrs. Jack Gaunt and three children of Ucluelet, Dr. and Mrs. G. B. Helem and David and Dr. and Mrs. Edward Helem and two children, all of Port Alberni; Mr. Tom Caugh, Duncan; Mr. Ted Pearson, Mr. Pete Morin and Mrs. Patrick Floyd, all of Parksville.

In England

Visiting British Columbia House in London in the week before the holidays were Mrs. D. M. Trew, FO B. K. Burnett and Mr. and Mrs. Tom Curtis, all of Victoria.

From Mainland

Mr. and Mrs. G. Chambers and Mr. and Mrs. E. V. Millar came from Vancouver to attend the wedding of Miss Carol Ross and Mr. Richard Copley in the chapel of the Royal Jubilee Hospital. Other out-of-town guests were Mrs. E. Crump, Barkerville; Mr. and Mrs. E. Mohr and family of Granum, Alta., and Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Ross of Wells, B.C.

In Jubilee Chapel

Cedar boughs, holly sprigs and white and yellow chrysanthemums decorated Royal Jubilee Hospital Chapel for the wedding of Carol Anne Ross and Richard Thomas Copley, Vancouver.

Canon R. K. Sampson officiated. Organist was Miss Patricia Melvor and "O Perfect Love" was sung by trio, Misses Louise Lindquist, Phyllis Lange and Georgia Reid.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Ross, 1240 Montrose Avenue, and Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Copley, 2833 Adelaide Street. Mr. Ross gave his daughter in marriage.

Bride's gown of white peau de soie and filmy net was styled with French lace on the bodice, finger-tip sleeves and full-length skirt that extended into a slight train. A coronet tiara held the short veil and her bouquet was white gardenias and red roses.

Attendants, Miss Rae Sabey, Victoria; Miss Sandra Nimmo, Port Renfrew and Miss Theresa McDonald, Vancouver, all in this month's graduating class at the hospital, wore short deep red velvet costumes with white fur head bands and muffs decorated with sprigs of holly.

Evan Mitchell, Mt. View, Calif., was best man and George Copley, Victoria, and Donald Heywood, Vancouver, the ushers.

Reception was held in the Ingraham Hotel banquet room where John Pennington proposed the toast to the bride.

Honeymoon was spent in Seattle and on the Olympic Peninsula, the bride traveling in a beige wool jersey sheath dress with jacket, a full-length white coat, and matching accessories. Her hat was of beige-brown marlbou.

Molded shredded apple and orange salad family will love, oldsters as well as the small fry. is a luncheon or dessert salad the whole

Eat Apples for Health and Vigor

Since "a man is as old as he's feeling, a woman as old as she looks," old age is a relative thing. Much depends on living habits, especially on what we eat. It follows that the earlier in life we learn to eat intelligently, the more likely we are to reach a chipper seventh, eighth or ninth decade.

Apple-eating, for instance, is an excellent life-long health habit. An apple has attributes of foods recommended for geriatric nutrition: vitamins, minerals, a comparatively low caloric value, an appealing taste, easy digestibility. If cooked or served shredded raw, an apple can be enjoyed by anyone regardless of the state of his or her teeth.

Some of these values of the apple must have been apparent to the ancients for, in Norse mythology, the gods ate apples to stay young. The apple was the fruit of everlasting life in Persian lore; giving someone an apple expressed a wish that he might live forever. In Turkey it was believed that a diet of apples would restore youth.

Whether the last is correct or not, apples are mighty good healthful eating for people of all ages. For the benefit of the whole family, grandparents as well as baby, test kitchen have come up with some delectable recipes made with shredded raw apples.

The shredded low-calorie apple pie will appeal to weight-watchers in the family as well. Though each serving is high in apple nutrients, the caloric value is down to 102 per 1/4 pie or 137 calories if 1/6 of the pie is eaten.

MOLDED SHREDDED APPLE AND ORANGE SALAD

One envelope unflavored gelatin, 1/2 cup cold water, 1 cup fresh orange juice, 3 tablespoons fresh lemon juice, 1/4 cup sugar, 1 cup shredded fresh apple, fresh apple slices, fresh orange sections.

Soften gelatin in cold water. Place over hot water (not boiling) to melt. Add to orange juice, 2 tablespoons of the lemon juice and sugar, chill until the mixture begins to thicken. Shred apples into the remaining 1 tablespoon fresh lemon juice and fold into the gelatin. Turn into an oiled 1-pt. mold. Chill until firm and ready to serve. Turn out onto a serving plate. Garnish with apple slices and fresh orange sections. Serve with mayonnaise. Yield, 6 servings.

SHREDDED UNCOOKED APPLE SAUCE

Two cups shredded fresh apples, 1 tablespoon fresh lemon juice, 3 tablespoons sugar.

Combine apples, lemon juice and sugar. Mix well. Serve at once since raw apple sauce does not have the keeping qualities of cooked apple sauce. Yield, 2 cups.

LOW-CALORIE SHREDDED APPLE PIE

One envelope unflavored gelatin, 1/4 cup cold water, 1/4 cup nonfat dry milk, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 1 egg (separated), 1 egg white, 3 tablespoons fresh lemon juice, 1/4 teaspoon grated lemon rind, 1/4 cup sugar, 1 teaspoon pure vanilla extract, 2 medium raw apples (shredded), 3 tablespoons graham cracker crumbs.

Soften gelatin in cold water in a custard cup. Place in a pan of hot water (not boiling) to melt. Set aside. Combine nonfat dry milk, salt and egg whites. Beat with an electric or rotary beater until the mixture begins to thicken. Add lemon juice slowly and continue beating until the mixture stands in very stiff peaks. Blend together egg yolk, lemon rind, sugar, pure vanilla extract and melted gelatin. Stir in shredded apples. Fold in egg white mixture. Sprinkle a buttered 8-inch pie plate with graham cracker crumbs, into which pour the filling. Chill until firm and ready to serve. Yield: six servings.

Calories per serving: 1/6 of a pie serving, 137; 1/8 of a pie serving, 102.

SHREDDED APPLE WHIP

Two tablespoons sugar, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon cornstarch, 2 eggs, 1 cup milk, 1 cup shredded raw apples, 2 tablespoons sugar, ground nutmeg.

Combine the two tablespoons sugar, salt and cornstarch in the top of a double boiler. Blend in one whole egg and egg yolk. (Save one white to use later). Add milk. Mix well. Stir and cook over hot water until the mixture coats a metal spoon. Remove from heat, cool and chill. Beat egg white until it stands in peaks. Beat in the remaining 2 tablespoons sugar. Fold in shredded apples. Spoon two tablespoons custard into each shallow glass. Finish filling with apple whip. Garnish with ground nutmeg. Yield: six servings.

New United Church Women's Association Takes Away Control; Gives New Responsibility

On Jan. 1 the Woman's Missionary Society and the Woman's Association of the United Church of Canada went out of existence, along with the Woman's Federations that had sprung up in recent years in local congregations where one group was set up to handle the tasks of the WMS and WA.

NEW PARTNERSHIP

Members of the United Church have worked toward this for eight years, albeit with some misgivings. They have been spurred on by a feeling that the women's groups were growing into something of a church in themselves.

The Woman's Missionary Society and Woman's Association between them have grown to about 300,000 members who have raised and allocated $7,000,000 a year for work in missions at home and abroad and for local church purposes. The WMS has been organized at the national level since the Methodist, Presbyterian and Congregational denominations united in 1925. The WA was formed nationally in 1920.

Members from both now are expected to participate actively with the United Church Women, and the functions they supported financially in the past are expected to get the same support in the future.

LESS CONTROL

However, the women won't have the same direct control over their finances as they had under the old arrangement. Part of the money raised by United Church Women will go into the general council treasury where there now are to be at least eight women on the finance board which previously had none.

Integration of the women's work comes under three new boards authorized by the church general council—the Board of World Mission, which combines WMS and Overseas Missions Board responsibilities; the Board of Home Missions, combining WMS and previous Home Missions Board work, and the Board of Women.

Women will have increased representation on the missions boards and the men will have representation on the Board of Women.

The United Church Women will function at the conference (provincial), presbyterial (district) and congregation (local) levels, with the pastor

Farms 560 Acres, Brings Up Six

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask. — (CP) — When Mrs. Helen Zheskeski's husband Bruno died 10 years ago, she was left with a 560-acre grain farm and six children.

She has not only carried on the farming operation and the raising of her children but has been active in a variety of public organizations as well.

She lives in Prince Albert, hiring help to till, plant and harvest the wheat, rye and barley on the farm, five miles east of here.

For five years she was women's director of the Saskatchewan Farmers' Union, District 15, and remains district secretary. She was convener of the Prince Edward home and school association and for three years was on a committee of Prince Albert air cadets.

Her eldest son, Henry, is a group captain in the RCAF. Two of her daughters are married, two others and a son are still in school.

Her plans: "I shall remain in the district and continue farming. Perhaps I shall even move back and live on the farm."

Leftover Turkey

For a delicious way to serve leftover turkey try reheating it in a nippy barbecue sauce. The following recipe makes a cup of sauce and is sufficient for 4 to 6 servings of turkey. Mix 1/2 cup lemon juice, 1/4 cup catsup, 1 tablespoon minced onion, 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, 1/2 teaspoon monosodium glutamate (optional), 1/2 teaspoon oregano, few grains cayenne pepper or dash of tobacco sauce and dash of garlic powder (optional). Mix ingredients thoroughly. Place required amount of thick turkey slices on aluminum foil, cover with sauce and fold foil over turkey to form a steam-proof, leak-proof package. (Packages may be individual servings, or one large package.) Place on cookie sheet and heat thoroughly in moderately hot oven, 375°F. for 20 to 25 minutes. Reheating cooked turkey in this way in the foil produces a freshly cooked flavor rather than a warmed-over one.

HONDURAS DISPUTE

Britain Ready To Hold Talks

LONDON (AP)—Britain months ago and it still has not been picked up by Guatemala.

Informal sources said the British offer to talk is intended to counter threats by President Miguel Ydigoras Fuentes to break diplomatic ties with Britain and to expel all British nationals unless the Guatemalan claim to British Honduras is recognized.

So far the foreign office has refrained from making any formal comment on Ydigoras' warnings. But informants expressed the belief that the Guatemalan leader has revived the territorial issue in order to divert attention from domestic difficulties.

Ydigoras said he would take the drastic step of breaking with Britain because of the lack of progress towards a settlement. British officials say actually an offer to negotiate was made by London two not been picked up by Guatemala.

MEXICO MAKES BID

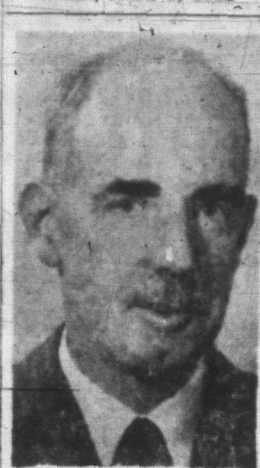

British Honduras, a colony of less than 9,000 square miles with a multi-racial population of 90,000, has been a source of dispute with its neighbor to the west since 1859 at least.

Guatemala is not the only country claiming the timber-sugar-citrus producing colony on the eastern seaboard of Central America. Mexico to the north tacitly accepts British sovereignty but has insisted that it will be entitled to take over part of the country if there is any change of ownership.

Shipwrecked British seamen in 1638 were the first to settle what today is British Honduras.

Guatemala bases its claims on the fact that British Honduras in colonial times belonged to the Spanish captaincy-general of Guatemala. Ultimately, by right of succession, the Spanish rights passed to Guatemala.

Shakespeare Wed To Different Anne?

STRATFORD ON AVON, England (AP)—They just won't let poor old William Shakespeare rest in peace. Now a student of the bard says he never married Anne Hathaway.

"Shakespeare married Anne Whetley," Lady Beecham said Tuesday. "The records show it. Anne Hathaway married William Wilsonne—and the records show that too."

Lady Beecham, first wife of the late conductor, Sir Thomas Beecham, has lived for many years at Clifton House near this hometown of Shakespeare.

Told of Lady Beecham's theory, Levi Fox, a Shakespearean expert, reported:

"I am quite satisfied with the accepted interpretation of Shakespeare's marriage to Anne Hathaway."

Fox is keeper of the city's records and director of the Shakespeare birthday trust.

'With a Smile on Lips' Castro Awaits Invasion

HAVANA (AP)—Backed by modern Soviet-bloc weapons and Latin America's fastest air force, Fidel Castro says his armed forces await any new invasion "with a smile on our lips."

The Cuban prime minister showed off his new military equipment Tuesday at a parade marking the third anniversary of his victory over the Batista dictatorship. He said, "Yankee imperialism" was the sole reason for Cuba's rearmament.

Highlights of the parade were three Communist-made MIG-19 jets which swept overhead with a flight of 18 older MIG-15s or MIG-17s.

The MIGs are believed to have been piloted by Cubans who recently completed training in Czechoslovakia.

Castro said his forces have been much improved since they defeated the invasion of Cuba last April.

"We are not a warmonger," he said. "We do not want to use these arms... but we shall fight if attacked with a fierceness unimagined by our enemies. We will exterminate them... We await the invaders with a smile on our lips."

The Cuban leader also assailed his critics in other Latin countries, especially presidents Romolo Betancourt of Venezuela and Alberto Lleras Camargo of Colombia, whom he called "murderers of workers, peasants and students." Castro said:

"Brothers, mobilize against any eventuality. The stupider they (the United States) act, the faster the hour of liberation approaches."

The crowd roared approval, and Castro announced he is calling a "national assembly" of hundreds of thousands of Cubans Jan. 22, the date the American foreign ministers meet in Uruguay to consider the danger posed by Cuba to the Western Hemisphere.

He said the mass rally will proclaim a second declaration of Havana to "show the imperialists our decision to fight and show Latin American puppets this is a decisive and heroic people." The first declaration was approved by the roar of a crowd in July, 1960. It included Cuba's repudiation of a mutual defence treaty with the United States.

Right-Wingers Open Campaign in Britain

LONDON (Reuters)—A new right-wing political group which aims "to give Britain a lead in restoring her moral standards and former greatness" opened a campaign for membership here Monday.

The movement claims the support of about 100,000 persons already and is spearheaded by the right-wing London newspaper, The New Daily.

The group, which calls itself The National Fellowship, set itself 12 main tasks.

Among these are the elimination of communism in Britain; a curtailment of the welfare state—which is "breeding a nation of idlers"—and the building up of the nation's hydrogen bomb resources.

Wives Charged in Pole Bombing

(Compiled From CP)

NELSON — The wives of two men charged with bombing of a power pole during the weekend, and the fiancée of a third, also were charged in provincial court here Monday.

Charged with unlawfully placing explosives at a power pole near Perry Siding were Pete S. Siegekoff and his wife Elizabeth Alice; George Perépolkin and his wife Molly; Mike Laren and his fiancée, Shirley Folstrom, and Larry Laren, brother of Mike.

The two married couples sat holding hands and whispering as stipendiary Magistrate K. D. McRae read out the charges. The engaged couple sat apart, the girl weeping quietly.

Only words spoken were by Mrs. Legebokoff, who said, after the charge was read to her, "That's not true."

All were remanded to Jan. 11. All are from Krestova.

VANCOUVER — A blaze that tore through a Vancouver rooming house Dec. 24 has claimed a second victim.

Chris Jacobsen, 41, died Tuesday in hospital from burns suffered in the blaze. Harold Dayton died in the blaze.

VANCOUVER — An 11-year-old North Vancouver boy is fighting for his life after being shot in the groin by a shotgun in a hunting accident.

Paul St. Pierre Jr., son of Paul St. Pierre Sr., associate editor of the Vancouver Sun, was in fair condition in hospital today.

Mr. St. Pierre said he left his son with his grandfather, Bob Roycroft, on a log boom Saturday while he went into Harrison Bay, about 30 miles east of here, in a canoe.

Police said Mr. Roycroft had his back turned to the boy when the gun went off. Mr. St. Pierre heard the blast of the gun and returned to find his son lying in the arms of Mr. Roycroft.

VANCOUVER — An appeal was filed Tuesday for George Caldwell from his conviction and six-year sentence here for fraud.

Caldwell was found guilty by an assize-court jury Dec. 10 after a marathon trial and sentenced eight days later by Mr. Justice J. G. Rutan.

Lawyer Victor Stephens, who defended Caldwell, will attack the conviction on legal grounds.

He claims the trial judge erred in his direction to the jury and that he did not put the defence as strongly as he put the crown's case to the jury.

Mr. Stephens said appeals will be filed shortly on behalf of the two companies which were convicted and fined $10,000 each for defrauding the public. They are Eagle Plains Developments Limited and Mount Baker Investments Limited.

VANCOUVER — Wenner-Gren B.C. Development Co. has made a satisfactory financial arrangement with a Seattle contracting company building a memorial to the world's fair, a city lawyer said yesterday.

H. P. Legg gave no details of the settlement with Howard Wright Construction Co. of Seattle which is building the transit system for Alweg Washington State Inc., a Wenner-Gren company.

Mr. Legg won a supreme court injunction last month forcing Wenner-Gren B.C. Development to stop $375,000 with the court because of a dispute over payment for the memorial.

He said his client had received no money for the work done to that date.

Three Katanga Gov't Officials Join in Talks

GENERALLY-RECOGNIZED

As Syria's elder statesman, former prime minister Faris El-Khoury, 84, died in Damascus Tuesday night after a two-year illness. He served four terms as prime minister and three terms as speaker of parliament during his 50 years in politics.

CPR Drops Winter Runs On Atlantic

MONTREAL (CP) — Canadian Pacific Steamships Limited will drop its North Atlantic passenger runs next winter and use the vessel for holiday cruises, it was announced today.

The line has scheduled three sailings of its Empress of Britain this winter from Saint John, N.B., for Britain.

Two other Empresses—England and Canada—are being used for winter cruises.

It was reported that diminishing passenger trade was the reason for cancelling next winter's passenger runs.

CPS has regular passenger service, except for the Second World War, between Canada and Britain since the end of the First World War.

The line has scheduled seven holiday cruises out of New York this year, six to the Caribbean and one to the Mediterranean. Two cruises are to start from Britain.

Next winter six or seven cruises will sail from New York and six from Britain.

Young Horsemen Found by Father

DUNCAN — Four young boys, who made a horseback trip Saturday to the top of Mount Prevost, then, went missing, were found at 2 a.m. Sunday just 200 yards from the farm they had tried to reach before being overtaken by nightfall.

They were Larrie and Dale Erickson, 14 and eight years, and their cousins, Kelvin and Gary Gregson, 11 and eight, who were held up as they tried to make their way through a windfall.

"We tried to reach the farm of Dennis Middlemiss but it got dark very fast and we were lost in the windfall," said Larrie Erickson. "We decided to wait for dawn because we couldn't get across with our horses."

His father, Ernest Erickson, and a friend, William Klinck, 17, found them at 2 a.m. Sunday just 200 yards from the Middlemiss farm. They were cold and hungry, but unharmed.

NOTICE is hereby given that an application will be made to the Legislative Assembly of the Province of British Columbia at its next Session on behalf of the Corporation of the City of Victoria for a Private Act to amend the "Victoria City Act, 1919" so as to confer power upon the Municipal Council of the Corporation of the City of Victoria.

Talks Open In Ottawa On U.K. Trade

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian government gets a first-hand report today on Britain's momentous negotiations to enter the European Common Market.

British Lord Privy Seal Edward Heath, who arrived Tuesday night for two days of conferences, was scheduled to meet this afternoon with four Canadian cabinet ministers to discuss the Common Market question—one in which Canadian export trade is vitally involved.

Mr. Heath, the British minister in charge of Common Market negotiations, told an airport press conference he hopes the discussions will "create a fuller understanding both of what is going on in the negotiations and of the Canadian views about them."

The talks were scheduled with a four-man cabinet committee of External Affairs Minister Green, Finance Minister Fleming, Trade Minister Hees and Agriculture Minister Alvin Hamilton.

Army Rank Revamping To Meet New Duties

By DAVE McINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP) — An overhaul of the officer rank structure in the Canadian Army is approaching as the army acquires new weapons and equipment, informants say.

Such a revision would put the army on the same level as the navy and the RCAF in which the rank structure is based more on weapons and equipment commanded by the number of men who operate them.

For instance, references to a navy or RCAF squadron concern the number of ships or planes in that squadron. But references to an army battalion concern the number of men in it, not the number of weapons, vehicles and so on.

An RCAF squadron has about 400 men and is generally commanded by a wing commander. The equivalent rank in the army is lieutenant-colonel. An army battalion has about 900 men and is com-

FIRE MARSHAL PROBES $30,000 SHIP BLAZE

NANAIMO — The fire marshal's office is investigating a blaze in the officers' quarters of the British freighter King David early Tuesday which sent one officer to hospital.

Second Officer Thomas Patch, 21, of Manchester suffered first-degree burns and shock in the blaze. He is in satisfactory condition in hospital here.

Damage to the vessel has been estimated at $30,000.

Porters Go to Court On Promotion Rights

WINNIPEG (CP) — Legal action for alleged discrimination will be taken against the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers (CLC) by Local 130 of the union's porters' division, it was announced today.

The porters claim they are prevented from being promoted to sleeping car conductor status under the existing wage and work agreement.

Lee Williams, chairman of Local 130, said today the report of the human rights committee of the Canadian Labor Congress which recommended a merger of the porters' and dining car groups of the Brotherhood, has not brought satisfactory results for the porters.

The committee found that there had been discrimination, but said it was due to the policy of the Canadian National Railways. The porters say it is not the fault of the CNR, and the CNR also has denied the charge.

Mr. Williams said the action of the local group has the support of porters' locals in other Canadian cities.

Under the existing agreement, the promotion to sleeping car conductor goes to dining car men. Mr. Williams said the Winnipeg local will lodge a complaint under the Canada Fair Employment Practices Act and take the case to the courts.

Canadians Lose Cash Not Fat

TORONTO (CP) — Dr. Barbara A. McLaren says Canadian men and women are losing money, not excess pounds, on "miracle help" such as mechanical reducing machines, special foods, low-calorie products, vitamin mixtures and appetite depressants.

It's estimated that Canadians spend $30,000,000 each year on various get-slim-quick schemes.

"Despite the gimmicks, Canadians still are carrying around more than 20,000,000 pounds of surplus fat," the director of the household science faculty at the University of Toronto says.

Writing in a pamphlet, Dr. McLaren suggests a visit to a doctor for a complete medical checkup, then consultation with a nutritionist for a personally planned program of diet and exercise.

Fat, not in itself, but in the diseases and conditions that arise from it, is the biggest killer of Canadian men and women, she says.

Flight Lieut. Andrew W. Stewart, son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew W. Stewart, 511 Constance Avenue, has been transferred from Air Force Headquarters, Ottawa, to RCAF Station, Kamloops, an aircraft control and warning radar unit in the Pinetree Line of defence.

He will be a telecommunications officer in charge of the advance party participating in the gradual handover of the station from American to Canadian management, RCAF headquarters announced.

ASK DEADLINE

It suggested the government set a deadline—in the unspecified future—after which marriages not solemnized in church or before a government marriage registrar would be considered illegal.

As the law stands, Chinese males married in church or at government marriage registries may not take concubines. Those married in what are described as "modern Chinese marriages" are free to take as many concubines as they wish or can afford.

"Modern Chinese marriages" are by far the most popular form of marriage among Hong Kong's 3,000,000 Chinese population.

They normally are unofficial ceremonies in a Chinese tea house, restaurant or night club. No civic, or religious officials officiate. A friend of the couple usually makes a speech and each party puts the family seal on a certificate obtainable from any stationery store.

It is common practice to measure the wealth of a Chinese by the number of concubines he keeps.

PRACTICE WIDESPREAD

Concubines, however, are not confined to the rich. The average Hong Kong office boy or factory worker has, as often as not, a concubine or two.

A 45-year-old messenger who keeps one concubine said: "My wife takes care of the children, my concubine does the daily household chores. There is perfect harmony among us. I don't see why we should break up."

Despite the outcry from the women's organizations, few Chinese males here are perturbed. Even fewer foresee an end to the system.

"The British would never dream of imposing a British way of life on us," one Chinese said.

A 69-year-old Chinese millionaire who keeps five concubines said:

"To keep several beautiful women under one roof in peace is as intricate as running a country. You need patience, tact and diplomacy. It is, in short, an art."

SOLUTION FRIDAY

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—You could have heard a parking ticket drop.

Because singing ex-cop Severio Saridis not only had great lungs and voice when he opened at the Plaza Persian Room but excellent stage presence.

"He's a sensational find—this is the opening of a great career," commented ringsider Walter Slezak, a guest of Plaza boss Neal Lang, who discovered the cop. No Caruso, of course, but who was? Only Mario Lanza.

And there was some humor. "Manage him right or he'll arrest you!" was the Bill Dana (Jose Jimenez) wire that manager George Greif received.

Scattered through the audience in their dinner suits were about 40 well-wishing buddies. "I never bumped up against so much hardware in my life," Grief said.

But the audience's rising ovation for the 28-year-old stocky, curly-haired male Cinderella was authentic. No top cop was there—but Fire Commissioner Ed Cavanagh, new deputy mayor-to-be, was in black tie. They say he's bound for the White House.

New estimate of the shooting time of Liz Taylor's "Cleopatra" (by technicians): three years! ... Composer Fritz Loewe delayed a trip to Tokyo (reportedly to plan a musical version of "Teahouse") to lunch in Palm Springs with Moss Hart—was one of the last to be with him.

When critic Virgil Thompson observed his 65th birthday, Milton Goldman wired him. "Why admit you're 65? You've had social security all your life!" ... Alex Kroll, Rutgers All-American center, is marrying hometown sweet heart Phyllis Benford (Lechburg, Pa.) at the Miami Beach Hotel Shelbourne—between practice sessions preceding the North-South game played in Miami Christmas night.

Members of both teams have been invited to the wedding. I never heard such great talk as about "The Broadway of Lerner & Loewe" NBC TV show which Norman Rosemont just produced for Feb. 11.

Lerner & Loewe appear together—their last time as collaborators—and NBC's Gen. Sarnoff's hoping to arrange a "Joint Command Performance" in advance for JFK, DeGaulle and Queen Elizabeth, with prints flown to Wash'n, Paris and London. ... Richard Burton, who's in it, is mentioned for knighthood; also Rex Harrison.

THE MIDNIGHT EARL: Ethel Merman, after her Palm Beach and Nassau vacation with Ed Bragno, starts her Stanley Kramer movie—her TV series is off till next year. ... Bea Lillie's B'way musical will be called "Begonny"—sort of a "one-woman show" but "with loads and loads of handsome men."

Susan Strassberg's filming "Disorder" in Paris with Bardot's beau, Sammy Frye; they may do a film together. ... Singer Jackie Wilson—who owns apartment buildings—has a problem: one tenant painted his apartment walls purple, with polka dot ceiling. (The court says it's OK.) ... Grace ("Peyton Place") Matthews and the tax department are hassling, and she's not writing much till it's settled.

Frank Sinatra begins filming "The Manchurian Candidate" in N.Y. on Jan. 15. ... A famed entertainer, in the $7,500-a-week bracket, has creditors lined up with bills 10 years old. ... Producer Joe Levine is budgeting his "Carpetbaggers" film at $5,000,000; he says a big budget "impresses the audience and depresses the stockholders." ... Conrad Janis plays an airline pilot in "Sunday in N.Y."

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy. Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes. The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia, and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Beverly Vaughn, aged 14, of Burlington, N.C., and Roger Berger, aged 13, of La Mesa, Calif., for their question:

How Did Newspapers Begin?

New Year's Day is a time to think of important things—and nothing is more important to us than our Freedom of the Press. This means that our newspapers can print the truth as they see it for all of us to read, no matter whom this may offend at home or abroad. No dictator can allow freedom of the press, or he would soon be out of business. No country can hold onto the freedoms it has gained without a free press to set the truth before the people from all angles.

In North America, we sell enough daily newspapers to supply every family with one a day, plus two each day for some 17 million families. Any person can keep up with the times by reading his daily paper and a well educated person reads at least two papers a day to get different viewpoints. Sensible persons base their opinions on the facts they can gather. They act and when the time comes they vote on their opinions—and on their majority vote our land is governed.

True, there are a few dopes too lazy to read a daily newspaper and others who read no farther than the funnies. These people have opinions, to be sure, but no one can say that their opinions are based on facts or reasonable evidence. We need, for the sake of ourselves and our country, to keep up with the constant stream of facts and news items from home and abroad. We are lucky to have a free press willing and able to bring us this vital information.

Some say the first real newspaper began in Peking in 500 A.D. It was called Tsing Tao, printed at first with hand-cut wooden blocks on rice paper. It was published until 1935. The ancestors of the newspaper, however, are far older than this.

Bulletin Posted in Forum.

One of these may have been a bulletin giving the news of the day around 60 B.C. and tacked up on the Roman Forum for all those who could read. A news letter also was sent from Rome to statesmen and business men in far-away cities. News letters of this sort were sent between the capitals of Europe until the 18th century.

The birth of the true newspaper, of course, had to wait for the invention of the printing press, which happened in Germany. So-called newsbooks were issued once and then—but the rulers suppressed them and frowned on the idea of keeping the people informed. Germany's first successful newspaper started in 1609 and England's in 1621. The first daily newspaper in the world was started by Elizabeth Mallet of London in the year 1702.

Andy sends a Hammond's Library World Atlas to Robert Harris, age 16, of Casey, Iowa, for his question:

How big is the Rock of Gibraltar?

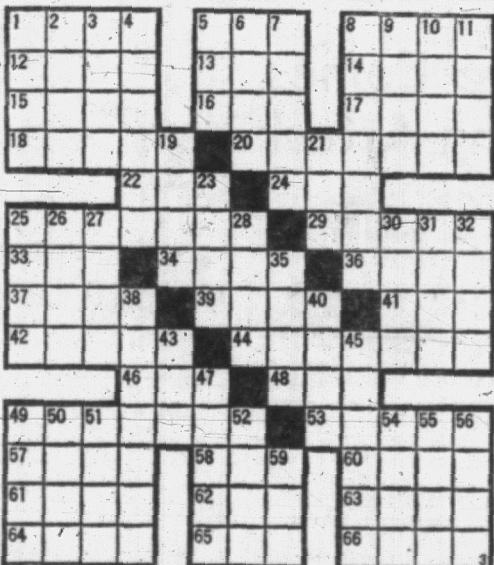

The famous Rock is a mass of ordinary limestone with steep peaks towering about 1,400 feet over sea level. It occupies most of a low-lying peninsula off the coast of Southern Spain no larger than two square miles. The height of the Rock and the size of its peninsula are not remarkable. The significance and the famous history of Gibraltar come from its location.

The link between the Mediterranean Sea and the Atlantic Ocean is the Strait of Gibraltar—eight to 25 miles wide. Here the natural fortress of Gibraltar faces the African coast, only 15 miles away. The steep, frowning cliffs of the Rock command control of the shipping that passes between the inland sea and the western ocean.

No Arms to Indonesia

COPENHAGEN (AP)—The Danish government has suspended all exports of arms to Indonesia because of its threat to seize Netherlands New Guinea.

CHIP HAULING MOVE DISTURBS IWA

CPR to Truck Logs Next?

DUNCAN—A threat to working conditions in this area was seen by Weldon Jubenville, president of IWA Local 1-80, in the proposed entry of CPR Transport Ltd. of Duncan. A recent Unemployment Insurance Commission report referred to the threatened layoff of about six chip truck drivers because of a cutback in production at Crofton, but it is believed any layoff will be due to the change of contractor. "We're alarmed at the situation," Mr. Jubenville said. "I figure it is not going to stop at chips, but will continue to spread in other directions. It will be only a matter of time until they (CPR) are hauling logs."

"CPR Merchandising have sub-standard wages and working conditions plus the fact that, being under federal charter, they are exempt from provincial laws such as the stipulation that a driver must not be on the road more than 10 consecutive hours, must receive time and one-half pay after eight hours, and vacation pay at the rate of four per cent."

Mr. Jubenville alleged the CPR is using its timber holdings to win contracts. "The IWA is investigating and will do everything in its power to resolve the situation," he said.

COMOX LEADS WAY IN BABY RACE

A healthy crop of babies arrived on Vancouver Island New Year's Day, with three Comox youngsters heading the list.

The fourth son of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Hendry of Comox was born at St. Joseph's Hospital, Comox, at 1:15 a.m. to win the honor of being the very first.

Within the next 15 minutes a son was born to Cpl. and Mrs. William Lothian, and a daughter to LAC and Mrs. Robert McEwan, both at the same hospital.

Victoria's first baby, Suanne Brine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Brine, was born at Royal Jubilee Hospital at 2:35 a.m.

Other first arrivals in their respective centres were: 3:34 a.m., a daughter, to Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Walker, Port Alberni, at West Coast General Hospital.

8:57 a.m., a daughter, to Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Germain, Port Alberni, at West Coast General Hospital.

11:15 a.m., a son, to Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ballegeer, Cowichan Lake Road, Duncan, at King's Daughters' Hospital.

11:35 a.m., a daughter, to Mr. and Mrs. David Thorne, Duncan, at King's Daughters' Hospital.

3:45 p.m., a daughter, to Mr. and Mrs. William Dawes, Nanaimo, at Nanaimo General Hospital.

7:28 p.m., a daughter, to Mr. and Mrs. William Cain, Ladysmith, at Ladysmith General Hospital.

Campbell River reversed tradition by paying tribute to the last baby of 1960, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Vander Donck, born at Campbell River General Hospital Dec. 30 at 5:20 p.m.

76 SLEEPLESS HOURS CAPTURES 'WAKETHON'

NANAIMO — Ron Sandnes, 326 Dufferin Street, won a "wakethon" against four other local youths by staying awake for 76 consecutive hours.

Sandnes, his brother Barry, Paul Tourand, Bob Brophy and Jim McDonald started the contest at midnight Thursday.

Brophy and McDonald quit at 3 p.m. Saturday, after they had been awake 39 hours, and Barry Sandnes and Tourand managed to stay awake to the 72-hour mark at 12:30 a.m. Monday.

"Keeping busy was the biggest problem," the winner said. "We talked, played cards, and took walks."

AT QUATSINO

Japanese Coming To Teach Whalers

VANCOUVER (CP)—Japanese experts will come to Canada this year to teach British Columbia whalers how to harpoon and butcher whales for use as human food.

The United Fishermen and Allied Workers Union (Ind.) has agreed that the Japanese can best teach its 150 whaling men the methods of electronic detection and preserving of whale meat for the dinner table.

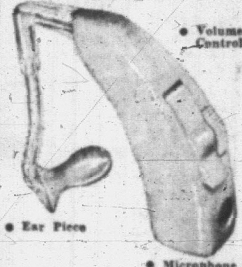

CONVERSION
The instruction is necessary because the B.C. whaling industry is converting its operation from reduction of whales to meal and oil to the process

FUNERAL SERVICES will be held Friday at 1:30 p.m. at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church for Robert "Bobbie" Ross, well-known former police officer who died Tuesday at Royal Jubilee Hospital. Born in Victoria and veteran of the First World War, he joined the B.C. Police and was for many years head of the Shawnigan Lake detachment, where he was serving when the above picture was taken. He went to the RCMP when the B.C. force was absorbed and retired in 1959. Surviving are the widow, Marion, at home; 1030 Richardson—two daughters, Mrs. W. O. Cameron, Victoria, and Mrs. Thomas Wilde, Duncan; four grandchildren; two brothers, James and Joseph Ross, Port Angeles; and one sister, Mrs. William Mair, Victoria. Interment will be at Hatley Memorial Gardens.

'We Seem to Be Winning . . . But the Battle Isn't Over Yet'

Ship Free of Rock in Sea Drama

Tugs Fight Worsening Weather

By MONTE ROBERTS

The battle to save a Greek freighter from gale-swept, rocky shores of Vancouver Island's west coast at the entrance to Barkley Sound continued today, with the odds improving that two Victoria-based towboats can save the ship.

But worsening weather indicated the sea is not yet ready to give up its claim on the 10,000-ton Ss. Glafkos, which was driven onto a rocky pinnacle at 7.44 p.m. Monday about a mile from Amphitrite Point Lighthouse near Ucluelet Inlet.

"We seem to be winning because she's still afloat, but the battle isn't over yet," an Island Tug and Barge spokesman said at noon today.

Sudbury Scored

At that time, he had just finished speaking by radio telephone to the two tugs on the scene, the Sudbury and Island Challenger.

This was the situation: The freighter, which had its engine room holed and completely flooded when she hit, was pulled free overnight when the Sudbury got a line aboard despite raging seas.

The light tackle — all she could get aboard because the freighter's crew had to pull it in by hand, their winches being without steam — parted just after the freighter was freed, with a crash of tearing metal from the rock.

The smaller Island Challenger moved in and fired a second line aboard. The freighter dropped both anchors in 20 fathoms of water, and, with the tug taking the strain, was held off the rocky coast which could mean her doom.

Anchor Chain Cut

After daybreak today, Sudbury moved in closer to the dangerous pocket of rocks surrounding the stricken ship, and got a line aboard to relieve Challenger, which went into Ucluelet to clear a clogged fuel line.

Meanwhile, the crew had cut through the anchor chain with cutting torches (with no power due to the flooded engine room, the anchors could not be hauled inboard), and were ready to let the second anchor go.

Challenger later returned to the ship, and at last report was fighting mounting seas and winds to add her towing power to that of the Sudbury.

Not until then will the second anchor chain be cut. The objective is to snake the freighter clear of menacing rocks, and into the handiest sheltered cove in Barkley Sound, where patching could be done before towing the Glafkos into Esquimalt for survey.

Lifeboat on Job

Since the freighter was hung up on the rock pinnacle Monday, the Bamfield lifeboat has been standing by on an almost continuous basis, tossing perilously in the heavy swell sweeping in from the open Pacific.

An RCAF search-and-rescue helicopter was at Totino ready to render aid, and this morning made several passes over the wreck, ready to drop auxiliary equipment on board if needed.

While the freighter was on the rock, she was in peril of breaking up, pounding up and down and swinging like a compass needle in winds which gusted up to 60 miles an hour.

THE CRUEL SEA HUNTS A VICTIM

Waves whipped into froth by gale-force winds tossed tiny, 30-foot Bamfield lifeboat (right) as Island Tug and Barge towboat Sudbury I (out of picture to left) held Greek freighter Glafkos off rocks at entrance to Barkley Sound. Waves pounding against ship smashed after davit of one of ship's own lifeboats (seen amidships), shortly after knocked it into the sea. (See other pictures, from Victoria Flying Services Cessna, Page 17.)

'Graveyard of Pacific' — I Could See Why!

By HAL JONES
Times Staff Reporter

Dramatic point of a rescue operation to save the crippled Greek freighter Glafkos was reached today as I flew over the scene.

The 10,000-ton vessel is free of the rock pinnacle which pierced her engine room Monday night but it was apparent to see she's still in grave danger.

'GRAVEYARD'

From the circling aircraft I could see why the area is known as the "graveyard of the Pacific."

Patches of boiling sea, signifying jagged outcrops of rock, were all over the place. A heavy Pacific swell still pounded the hapless ship, precariously holding her ground with the help of the city tug Sudbury I and a solitary anchor chain.

As I watched a port-side lifeboat, already loosened during the 40-hour battering suffered by the Glafkos, finally broke away and sank below the waves.

The ship is surrounded by dangerous rocks. Even if the weather slackens off — and there is no sign of a let-up yet — she will have to be wormed out of a maze of underwater reefs.

Most of the strain during Tuesday night was held by the tug Challenger but early today the tow-line was transferred to the Sudbury and the Challenger headed for Ucluelet for a brief rest.

SO SMALL

An RCAF rescue helicopter was hovering over the scene when I arrived but that left too, leaving the Glafkos to the care of the Sudbury and the seemingly ridiculously small Bamfield lifeboat.

No Love For Authors In Canada

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP) — Novelist Nicholas Monsarrat said Tuesday Canadian authors are among the least appreciated in the world, they are comparatively ill-paid and considered by many as "only a trifle more important than the street sweeper."

Mr. Monsarrat, author of The Cruel Sea, interviewed here on his arrival from Liverpool aboard the Empress of Britain, said one of the reasons is that Canada, being a predominantly outdoor nation, is a very bad reading country. It lagged behind even areas of Africa.

The British-born writer, who now lives in Ottawa, was accompanied by his bride, Ann Griffiths, 24, former London journalist. She is his third wife. They were married in December.

JAKARTA (Reuters) — President Sukarno today officially proclaimed Dutch-held West New Guinea an Indonesian province.

At the same time, Foreign Minister Subandrio apparently turned a cold shoulder to a Dutch concession aimed at getting negotiations to reach a peaceful solution on the fate of the disputed territory.

Subandrio said that judging from reports of the Dutch statement he doubted that the new position "can become the basis for a solution to the Indonesian-Dutch dispute."

The governor of Jakarta meanwhile called on the capital's 3,000,000 citizens to register themselves voluntarily for general mobilization.

'Won't Surrender To Threat of War'

THE HAGUE (Reuters) — Foreign Minister Joseph Luns said today Holland would do everything in its power to prevent the use of force by Indonesia, but would not capitulate to the threat of war.

Luns addressed the lower house of parliament here as a report from Jakarta said Indonesian President Sukarno has advanced his campaign to take over Dutch-ruled West New Guinea by proclaiming the huge territory a province of Indonesia.

The Dutch government said Tuesday it is willing to negotiate on the territory's future with Indonesia.

In the strongest speech yet in the current parliamentary debate on the crisis, Luns warned the Indonesians that if they attacked West New Guinea to climax their "liberation" campaign, they will be branded "aggressors before the world."

The foreign minister described the increased threats of force by Indonesia in recent weeks as "blackmail" to which The Netherlands has replied "with the utmost reasonableness."

In international relations if one party gave way because the other "put the knife on the table," Luns said, this would be capitulation and The Netherlands is not prepared to do that.

He clung to the tree for 30 minutes before a passerby heard his shouts for help and summoned firemen who rescued him from a small boat.

Swain's car is believed to have sunk in a flooded field. The flooding followed torrential rain in the B.C. Lower Mainland and Fraser Valley areas where the weather office reported up to three inches of rain.

The rain turned to ice as it hit frozen stretches of the Hope-Princeton Highway causing an estimated 30 cars and trucks to skid off the road.

But there were no injuries. Roads were washed out and telephone services cut by the flooding in Greater Vancouver.

New Soviet Rifle Captured in Laos

VIENTIANE, Laos (UPI) — A high-powered armor-piercing Russian recoilless rifle, believed to be the first to fall into western hands, has been captured from rebel Laotian forces in the plain of Jars, a high-ranking Laotian officer reported today. The weapon will be shipped to the United States for study by American experts.

Salazar in Fiery Blast At UN Over Goa Invasion

LISBON (Reuters) — Premier Antonio Salazar said today the Portuguese government refuses to accept India's conquest of Goa and hinted strongly that Portugal eventually might decide to leave the United Nations.

He said that for the time being Portugal would refuse the UN "collaboration" in matters not in "our direct interest."

Salazar took his stand in a speech prepared for delivery before Portugal's National Assembly. It was his first address there since Indian armed forces seized the Portuguese territories of Goa, Damao and Diu last month.

He struck out strongly at the negative UN response to the Indian invasion, saying "we have a right to bear whether our presence and our collaboration in the UN are already useless."

MAY BE FIRST

He added: "Even if we do not yet know whether we shall be the first country to abandon the United Nations, we shall surely be among the first."

"Meanwhile, we shall refuse them (the UN) our collaboration in everything that is not in our direct interest."

ROUND-A-BOUT

By DOUGLAS HILLSIDE

Tom Hurley, the popular criminal lawyer who died in Vancouver earlier this week, did not marry until age 67. Then he took for his bride his secretary, Maisie Armytage Moore, the only white woman to belong to the Native (Indian) Brotherhood of B.C. Tom's wedding gift made history. It was the embalmment of the Marquess of Montrose, who was executed in 1650!

A tribute to Victoria was paid by departing New York girl Pat McAllister, who had spent the past three years here. A young woman who has travelled widely, Pat described the capital as "very quaint and very friendly; it's like no other place I've ever been. I loved it every minute."

Don McAllister, Pat's husband, has been transferred to Vancouver as assistant to the president, Island Tug and Barge, and the couple have spent the past few days moving.

Last of the Christmas guests at the Empress Hotel—Dr. D. F. and Mrs. Kimball of La Crescenta, Calif.—checked out of the Empress Hotel today.

"This is the fifth year we have spent Christmas and New Years at the Empress," Dr. Kimball said. "We always have a wonderful time."

The hotel entertained more than 600 guests over the holiday. It returned to normal today with the dismantling of Christmas decorations.

Fred Manning postcards from Tahiti: "A great place for coconuts. All those stories you have heard about Tahiti are true. It's Honolulu of 100 years ago—only more beautiful."

Mr. Bennett, your cabinet gets youthful scrutiny, with refreshing comment.

Retail clerks' agent John Nicol had some Boys' Parliament delegates for breakfast last week, and the conversation got around to politics.

Someone asked a delegate who he liked in the provincial government. The boy thought a moment before answering seriously:

"Mr. Gagliardi."

"Why do you like him?" John asked.

Another moment of thought passed before the still-serious reply:

"Because he's the only old teen-ager in the government."

... PACIFIC GRAVEYARD

The three men aboard the lifeboat have a lot to their credit. They answered the first call for help from the freighter Monday night and apart from a brief trip to Udulelet for food Tuesday night have been on the stormy scene without a break.

HARDY PEOPLE

They typify the interest of the hardy people on the West Coast of Vancouver Island in the drama being enacted nearby.

With Times photographer Bill Halkett, I was forced to spend Tuesday night at the small community of Bamfield some 20 miles from where the Glafkos is fighting for her life.

Gale force winds and zero visibility prevented us from going any further in a Victoria Flying Services Cessna 150 float plane piloted by Ron Stensrud.

LATEST WORD

All through the evening, small groups of people gathered around radio and television sets and at the lifeboat station to get the latest word on the rescue operations.

The people of Bamfield (pop. 350), have an almost fanatical pride in their lifeboat which is being skippered by acting coxswain Bill Fullerton. With him on the 30-foot boat battling the Pacific are Martin Charles and Fred Barber.

NOT OVER

As one resident told me: "Their job is to save lives. They don't care about the Glafkos but so long as there are 30 men aboard her our boys will stay out there."

The weather lifted sufficiently this morning for us to take off to survey the scene but even as we left, the clouds began to swirl in again and high winds were whipping up the seas around the Glafkos and the tug trying valiantly to save her.

Her battle against the sea is not over yet.

... SALAZAR

Salazar said his country entered the UN only "at the request of Britain and the United States, who argued that it was necessary to reinforce the Western position in any emergency." Portugal belongs to NATO.

The premier charged that with the "transfer of powers" from the UN's Security Council to its General Assembly, the West lost the chance of saving "the government of the world from domination by an intolerable dictatorship of racist passions and irresponsibility."

HITS RUSS CONTROL

He ripped into the Security Council as "dominated by Russia" and the assembly as under the sway of the Communists and Afro-Asian countries.

The premier paid tribute to efforts made by the United States and Britain to prevent the Indian invasion and bring about a peaceful settlement, but regretted their impotence in this connection.

He also expressed appreciation for similar efforts by Canada, Australia, West Germany, Argentina, Belgium and The Netherlands and for the "solidarity" shown by Brazil and Spain.

Salazar said one of the missions of the 3,500 Portuguese troops in the Indian territories was "to force the Indian union to set forth on a large military operation which would shock the world" and that mission had been fulfilled.

ACCUSE COMMUNISTS

A few hours before the premier spoke, an army ministry communique accused the Communist party of leading an unsuccessful revolt at Beja army barracks Monday.

The communique said five army officers have been dismissed and investigation of the plot "showed that it was an action planned and oriented by the Communist party... With in a general plan of action whose details are being investigated."

There was speculation in Lisbon on what the rebels intended to achieve—whether they hoped to gain control of southern Portugal or hoped for a sea landing by sympathizers.

CANADA URGED TO GET OFF THE FENCE

WASHINGTON (CP)—Former state secretary Christian Herter said today Western Europe seems to be reacting favorably to his proposal for an economic partnership among NATO countries but that "Canadian reaction is somewhat mixed."

"Canadian policy with regard to the European Common Market seems to be still in a state of flux," Herter told a press conference called to focus attention on a citizens' convention of NATO countries opening in Paris next Monday.

Herter and William L. Clayton, undersecretary of state in the Truman administration, head a 20-member non-political American delegation. Canada is to send a delegation of seven. Herter and Clayton have joined in a proposal that the 15 NATO countries form a trans-Atlantic partnership, advocating lower tariffs and a greater flow of trade. Clayton said he would like to see both Canada and the United States become associate members in the European Common Market.

Two Men Charged With Infraction Of Detective Act

Trials for two men charged with acting as private detectives without licence were delayed until Jan. 10 in city police court today when their lawyers asked for particulars of the counts.

Charles de Macedo, 1162 Burdett, is charged with breaking the Private Detective Licence Act from June 15 to Dec. 30, and Robert Rathburg, 2647 Anson Place, the same, from Oct. 1 to Dec. 22.

The new province was named Irian Barat (West Irian) and the capital of Hollandia was made Kota Baru (New City).

The proclamation said Sukarno will appoint a governor and members of parliament for the province and define their powers.

The announcement came on the heels of Dutch Premier Jan de Quay's announcement that The Netherlands was willing to drop its insistence that self-determination for the 730,000 natives of West New Guinea must be a prior condition to any talks with Indonesia.

Big Iceberg Spotted

SALEM, Mass. (AP)—A 300-foot iceberg has been spotted in the Atlantic 250 miles southeast of Salem and between the two major shipping lanes to Europe. The coast guard said it was the first time an iceberg has drifted so far south in December. It is a menace navigation since 1917. If it reaches the gulf stream it is expected to melt rapidly.

U.K. FLEET MOVEMENT LINKED TO LEBANON REVOLT

'Fertile Crescent' Favored

BEIRUT (AP)—Interior Minister, Kamal Jumblatt, a disciple of President Nasser of the United Arab Republic, charged today that last week-end's unsuccessful rightist uprising in Lebanon was linked to British fleet movements in the Mediterranean.

In a statement in the newspaper L'Orient, Jumblatt expressed views similar to those published in Cairo, Baghdad and other Middle Eastern capitals. The plotters opposed Nasser's pan-Arab nationalism and favored a "fertile crescent" union of Lebanon, Syria, Jordan, Iraq, Palestine and Cyprus.

The authors of the attempt went into action only after having made sure of the movements of the British fleet in the Mediterranean," he said.

That proves that the events of Dec. 30-31 (the dates of the coups), were not unconnected with events now unfolding elsewhere in the Middle East.

The only unusual movements by British warships noted recently in the Middle East were by a fleet dispatched from Africa's east coast to the Kuwait area after new threats by Iraq against Kuwait. They steamed into the Persian Gulf but did not come near the Mediterranean.

22 CREW MEMBERS LIFTED FROM STRICKEN FREIGHTER

Tugs Fight To Save Vessel

Twenty-two of the 27-man crew were removed today by helicopter from the battered Greek freighter Glafkos.

RCAF Search and Rescue headquarters in Vancouver said a twin-rotor helicopter that had been standing by at Ucluelet, about three miles from where the holed freighter was anchored, had removed 22 men by 1.30 p.m.

The aircraft, capable of carrying six to eight passengers, was to refuel and return to the ship later today.

An RCAF spokesman said it was not known at headquarters here whether all aboard would be taken ashore and the ship abandoned to the rocks.

The men left aboard are Capt. E. Petratos, the first mate, chief engineer, wireless operator and one crewman.

Meanwhile, an Island Tug and Barge Co. spokesman said efforts to cut loose the freighter's second anchor, with a burning torch, were temporarily abandoned when the oxygen supply ran out.

Additional supplies will be flown to the ship by RCAF helicopter.

The spokesman said the situation is still "touch and go."

He said Sudbury I is trying to tow the anchored ship but is "only holding its own." The freighter had been dragging anchor.

The Island Challenger had returned to Ucluelet to pick up more equipment.

The 10,000-ton vessel is free of the rock pinnacle which pierced her engine room Monday night but it was apparent to see she is still in grave danger.

'GRAVEYARD'

From the circling aircraft I could see why the area is known as the "graveyard of the Pacific."

Patches of boiling sea, signifying jagged outcrops of rock, were all over the place. A heavy Pacific swell still pounded the hapless ship, precariously holding her ground with the help of the city tug Sudbury I and a solitary anchor chain.

As I watched a port-side lifeboat, already loosened during the 40-hour battering suffered by the Glafkos, finally broke away and sank below—the waves.

The ship is surrounded by dangerous rocks. Even if the weather slackens off—and there is no sign of a let-up yet—she will have to be worried out of a maze of underwater reefs.

Most of the strain during Tuesday night was held by the tug Challenger but early today the tow-line was transferred to the Sudbury and the Challenger headed for Ucluelet for a brief rest.

SO SMALL

An RCAF rescue helicopter was hovering over the scene when I arrived but that left too, leaving the Glafkos to the care of the Sudbury and the seemingly ridiculously small Bamfield lifeboat.

Salazar in Blast At UN

LISBON (Reuters)—Premier Antonio Salazar said today the Portuguese government refuses to accept India's conquest of Goa and hinted strongly that Portugal eventually might decide to leave the United Nations.

He said that for the time being Portugal would refuse the UN "collaboration" in matters not in "our direct interest."

Salazar took his stand in a speech prepared for delivery before Portugal's National Assembly.

It was his first address there since Indian armed forces seized the Portuguese territories of Goa, Damao and Diu last month.

Indonesia 'Takes' Area

JAKARTA (Reuters)—President Sukarno today officially proclaimed Dutch-held West New Guinea an Indonesian province.

At the same time, Foreign Minister Subandrio apparently turned a cold shoulder to a Dutch concession aimed at getting negotiations to reach a peaceful solution on the fate of the disputed territory.

Subandrio said that judging from reports of the Dutch statement he doubted that the new position "can become the basis for a solution to the Indonesian-Dutch dispute."

The governor of Jakarta meanwhile called on the capital's 3,600,000 citizens to register themselves voluntarily for general mobilization.

A broadcast of Sukarno's proclamation said the Dutch-

'Won't Surrender To Threat of War'

THE HAGUE (Reuters)—Foreign Minister Joseph Luns said today Holland would do everything in its power to prevent the use of force by Indonesia but would not capitulate to the threat of war.

Luns addressed the lower house of parliament here as a report from Jakarta said Indonesian President Sukarno has advanced his campaign to take over Dutch-ruled West New Guinea by proclaiming the huge territory a province of Indonesia.

The Dutch government said Tuesday it is willing to negotiate.

The battle to save a Greek freighter from gale-swept, rocky shores of Vancouver Island's west coast at the entrance to Barkley Sound continued today, with the odds improving that two Victoria-based towboats can save the ship.

But worsening weather indicated the sea is not yet ready to give up its claim on the 10,000-ton Ss. Glafkos, which was driven onto a rocky pinnacle at 7.44 p.m. Monday about a mile from Amphitrite Point Lighthouse near Ucluelet Inlet.

"We seem to be winning because she's still afloat, but the battle isn't over yet," an Island Tug and Barge spokesman said at noon today.

Sudbury Scored

At that time, he had just finished speaking by radio telephone to the two tugs on the scene, the Sudbury and Island Challenger.

This was the situation: The freighter, which had its engine room holed and completely flooded when she hit, was pulled free overnight when the Sudbury got a line aboard despite raging seas.

The light tackle—all she could get aboard because the freighter's crew had to pull it in by hand, their winches being without steam—parted just after the freighter was

Tom Hurley, the popular criminal lawyer who died in Vancouver earlier this week, did not marry until age 67. Then he took for his bride his secretary, Malsie Armitage Moore, the only white woman to belong to the Native (Indian) Brotherhood of B.C. Tom's wedding gift made history. It was the embalmed heart of the Marquess of Montrose, who was executed in 1630!

A tribute to Victoria was paid by departing New York girl Pat McAllister, who had spent the past three years here. A young woman who has travelled widely, Pat described the capital as "very quaint and very friendly; it's like no other place I've ever been. I loved it every minute."

Don McAllister, Pat's husband, has been transferred to Vancouver as assistant to the president, Island Tug and Barge, and the couple have spent the past few days moving.

The hotel entertained more than 600 guests over the holiday. It returned to normal today with the dismantling of Christmas decorations.

Someone asked a delegate who he liked in the provincial government. The boy thought a moment before answering seriously:

"Mr. Gagliardi."

"Why do you like him?" John asked.

Another moment of thought passed before the still-serious reply:

"Because he's the only old teen-ager in the government."

PACIFIC GRAVEYARD

The three men aboard the lifeboat have a lot to their credit. They answered the first call for help from the freighter Monday night and apart from a brief trip to Udulet for food Tuesday night have been on the stormy scene without a break.

HARDY PEOPLE

They typify the interest of the hardy people on the West Coast of Vancouver Island in the drama being enacted nearby.

With Times photographer Bill Halkett, I was forced to spend Tuesday night at the small community of Bamfield some 20 miles from where the Glafkos is fighting for her life.

Gale force winds and zero visibility prevented us from going any further in a Victoria Flying Services Cessna 130 float plane piloted by Ron Stensrud.

LATEST WORD

All through the evening, small groups of people gathered around radio and television sets and at the lifeboat station to get the latest word on the rescue operations.

The people of Bamfield (pop. 250), have an almost fanatical pride in their lifeboat which is being skippered by acting coxswain Bill Fullerton. With him on the 30-foot boat battling the Pacific are Martin Charles and Fred Barber.

As one resident told me: "Their job is to save lives. They don't care about the Glafkos but so long as there are 30 men aboard her our boys will stay out there."

The weather lifted sufficiently this morning for us to take off to survey the scene

CANADA URGED TO GET OFF THE FENCE

WASHINGTON (CP)—Former state secretary Christian Herter said today Western Europe seems to be reacting favorably to his proposal for an economic partnership among NATO countries but that "Canadian reaction is somewhat mixed."

"Canadian policy with regard to the European Common Market seems to be still in a state of flux," Herter told a press conference called to focus attention on a citizens' convention of NATO countries opening in Paris next Monday.

Herter and William L. Clayton, undersecretary of state in the Truman administration, head a 20-member non-political American delegation. Canada is to send a delegation of seven.

Herter and Clayton have joined in a proposal that the 15 NATO countries form a trans-Atlantic partnership, advocating lower tariffs and a greater flow of trade. Clayton said he would like to see both Canada and the United States become associate members in the European Common Market.

U.K. FLEET MOVEMENT LINKED TO LEBANON REVOLT

'Fertile Crescent' Favored

BEIRUT (AP)—Interior Minister Kamal Jumblatt, a disciple of President Nasser of the United Arab Republic, charged today that last week-end's unsuccessful rightist uprising in Lebanon was linked to British fleet movements in the Mediterranean.

In a statement to the news paper L'Orient, Jumblatt expressed views similar to those published in Cairo, Baghdad and other Middle Eastern capitals. The plotters opposed Nasser's pan-Arab nationalism and favored a "fertile crescent" union of Lebanon, Syria, Jordan, Iraq, Palestine and Cyprus.

The authors of the attempt went into action only after having made sure of the movements of the British fleet in the Mediterranean," he said.

"That proves that the events of Dec. 30-31 (the dates of the freed, with a crash of tearing metal from the rock.

The smaller Island Challenger moved in and fired a second line aboard. The freighter dropped both anchors in 20 fathoms of water, and, with the tug taking the strain, was held off the rocky coast which could mean her doom.

Anchor Chain Cut

After daybreak today, Sudbury moved in closer to the dangerous pocket of rocks surrounding the stricken ship, and got a line aboard to relieve Challenger, which went into Udulet to clear a clogged fuel line.

Meanwhile, the crew had cut through one anchor chain with cutting torches (with no power due to the flooded engine room, the anchors could not be hauled inboard) and were ready to let the second anchor go.

Challenger later returned to the ship, and at last report was fighting mounting seas and winds to add her towing power to that of the Sudbury.

Not until then will the second anchor chain be cut. The objective is to snake the freighter clear of menacing rocks, and into the handiest sheltered cove in Barkley Sound, where patching could be done before towing the Glafkos into Esquimalt for survey.

Lifeboat on Job

Since the freighter was hung up on the rock pinnacle Monday, the Bamfield lifeboat has been standing by on an almost continuous basis, tossing perilously in the heavy swell sweeping in from the open Pacific.

An RCAF search-and-rescue helicopter was at Tofino ready to render aid, and this morning made several passes over the wreck, ready to drop auxiliary equipment on board if needed.

While the freighter was on the rock, she was in peril of breaking up, pounding up and down and swinging like a compass needle in winds which gusted up to 60 miles an hour.

A veteran seaman described the area where the Glafkos went aground as "about the worst on this coast."

He said the rocky underwater shelf extended out, shallowly, and seas coming in from the Pacific "built up tremendously" along the shelf.

"It is just a cove wide open to the sea," he said. "Even when the wind eases off, the waves stay high."

Flooded Quickly

The freighter ran aground in dense fog Monday evening. At 7:44 p.m., her master, Capt. E. Petros, wirelessly that the ship was hard aground, holed and taking water in the engine room.

The engine room must have flooded quickly, because the Glafkos' radio conked out between 8:15 and 8:30 p.m.

Island Tug despatched the two big towboats to the scene: lifeboats, from Tofino and Bamfield, and an RCAF helicopter stood by to take off the crew if necessary.

Around noon Tuesday there were conflicting reports that the crew had asked to be taken off, and that seas were too high. This was denied by both Tofino and Bamfield lifeboat stations.

Glafkos is a Canadian-built wartime freighter, launched as Ss. Algonquin Park, and now owned by Polyna Marine Co., Piraeus, Greece. She was bound from Japan to Vancouver in ballast.

held territory is about to become Indonesian.

The new province was named Irian Barat (West Irian) and the capital of Hollandia was made Kota Baru (New City).

The proclamation said Sukarno will appoint a governor and members of parliament for the province and define their powers.

The announcement came on the heels of Dutch Premier Jan de Quay's announcement that The Netherlands was willing to drop its insistence that self-determination for the 730,000 natives of West New Guinea must be a prior condition to any talks with Indonesia.
